Basic Data Elements
For Elementary and Secondary Education Information Systems
The National Center for Education Statistics (NCES) is the primary federal entity for collecting, analyzing, and reporting data related to education in the United States and other nations. It fulfills a congressional mandate to collect, collate, analyze, and report full and complete statistics on the condition of education in the United States; conduct and publish reports and specialized analyses of the meaning and significance of such statistics; assist state and local education agencies in improving their statistical systems; and review and report on education activities in foreign countries.

NCES activities are designed to address high priority education data needs; provide consistent, reliable, complete, and accurate indicators of education status and trends; and report timely, useful, and high quality data to the U.S. Department of Education, the Congress, the states, other education policymakers, practitioners, data users, and the general public.

We strive to make our products available in a variety of formats and in language that is appropriate to a variety of audiences. You, as our customer, are the best judge of our success in communicating information effectively. If you have any comments or suggestions about this or any other NCES product or report, we would like to hear from you. Please direct your comments to:

Foreword

This document represents a collaborative effort of representatives of education agencies and associations at the local, state, and national levels who participate in the National Forum on Education Statistics. The Forum was initiated in response to the Hawkins-Stafford Education Improvement Amendments (Public Law 100-297) which established the National Cooperative Education Statistics System. The Cooperative System was created in 1988 to respond to Congress’ desire to create a mechanism for states and the federal government to work together to produce comparable and uniform education statistics for policymaking at all levels of government. The Forum’s mission is to develop and recommend strategies for strengthening a voluntary national education data system—one that fosters cooperation among existing local, state, and federal systems—to support the improvement of public and private education throughout the United States.

Early in its existence, the Forum developed a strategic plan. One of the major goals described in the plan is:

“to develop a comprehensive core system of comparable local, state, and federal data useful to policymakers and educators at all levels of government. The Forum will identify and define the core data needed to operate schools and districts, to support state and federal program reports, and to guide education policy at all levels.”

It was hoped that core data would be able to answer policy and program questions with maximum efficiency and minimal extra burden on respondents.

In 1994, the Forum’s National Education Statistics Agenda Committee established a task force to identify a comprehensive and dynamic core of data elements based on clearly-defined criteria that meets the requirements specified in the goal stated above. This report contains the recommendations of the task force for a set of basic data elements that provides the information needed to operate schools and districts, support state and federal program reporting, and guide education policy at all levels. Contained in this report is a set of student and staff level data elements. Areas such as school finance and facilities are not addressed in this report. Additional work will be done to identify data elements in these areas. In addition, the task force will continue additional review of federal reporting data elements, taking into account the changing data requests from the federal government. While this report does capture many of the data elements needed for state and federal reporting, state and local data collectors still need to examine and incorporate those data elements that are critical for state and local reporting purposes.
Also contained in this report is a recommended process for identifying and periodically updating the set of data elements to be maintained by a school, school district, state education agency, or other education unit with a need for student and staff information.

This set of basic data elements does not include data elements more typically collected in sample surveys or those reflecting unique local and state activities. The purpose of these basic data elements is to provide a common language to promote the collection and reporting of comparable education data to guide policy and assist in the administration of state and local education systems.
Acknowledgments

Leadership for this project was provided by a task force consisting of representatives from state, regional, and national education agencies and associations. The persons who served on the task force for one or more years include Thomas Soltys (Delaware), Chair from April 1994 to April 1995; Dori Nielson (Montana), Chair beginning in May 1995; Ken Adler (Wisconsin); Matthew Cohen (Ohio); Lynn Cornett (Southern Regional Education Board, Atlanta, Georgia); Lavan Dukes (Florida); Gary Farland (Minnesota); Hal Robins (Utah); Ed Sloat (Arizona); and Judith Thompson (Connecticut). Participating from the National Center for Education Statistics were Carol Sue Fromboluti, Lee Hoffman and Mary Rollefson. Providing assistance to the task force were Barbara Clements, Carol Lam, and Tom Szuba of the Council of Chief State School Officers.

The task force is indebted to the numerous local, state, and national education agency and professional organization representatives who served on focus groups, reviewed the draft documents, and participated in round table discussions. Their comments on the feasibility of implementing such a set of basic data elements are especially appreciated.

Executive Summary
Basic Data Elements
Executive Summary

Since the creation of the National Cooperative Educational Statistics System in 1988, states have joined with the National Center for Education Statistics to “produce and maintain ... comparable and uniform education statistics.” Through the Cooperative’s guiding organization, the National Forum on Education Statistics, states have met to develop and propose a set of basic data elements for voluntary use. Using these basic data elements will provide more comparable and reliable education information for any educational system adopting the common terminology. It will also reduce redundancy and alleviate burden on data collectors and providers.

What Are The Basic Data Elements?

The basic data elements are building blocks for an education information system. The implementation of these basic data elements can provide data for:

- education policy and decisionmaking for elementary and secondary education;
- the understanding, operation, management, and improvement of local and state education systems and federal education programs; and
- comparable statistics at the school, district, state, and national levels.

The basic data elements included in this report will not meet every education information purpose. Although this report captures many of the data elements that are needed for state and federal reporting, additional review of federal reporting data elements will be continued by the Forum on Education Statistics, taking into account the changing data requests from the federal government. In addition, state and local data collectors must examine and incorporate those data elements that are critical for state and local reporting purposes.

Policy Questions, Indicators, and Basic Data Elements

How well are our children learning? What is the cost of public education? Do all students have the same opportunities to study challenging subject matter? Do students in the U.S. learn as much as their counterparts in other countries?

People who have tried to monitor the progress of students in their school systems or compare their education systems with another know that simple answers are hard to find. How do we know the exact content covered in a course? Do the names given to staff positions in different parts of the country have enough consistency to know what they really do? With variations in terms, how can a district compare its students, staff, services, programs—not to mention its effectiveness—with those in another district?
The most important use of this set of basic data elements is to help schools address the needs of students. When these data elements are maintained at the school or district level they can provide information for teachers to monitor student needs, parents to become aware of their children’s performance and principals to make better decisions regarding their schools and to ensure that students have qualified teachers and administrators. More comparable information enables state and local government leaders and the public to gauge the effectiveness of schools and how education dollars are being spent.

How To Use The Set of Basic Data Elements

A set of basic data elements should provide the means to answer the most frequently asked questions about the administration, status, quality, operation and performance of schools and school systems. But comparable, reliable, valid, measurable, and regularly collected data have not been available to do so.

This report is a first step to accomplish this task. The report contains

- a process for selecting and including new data elements into an information system, making it more comprehensive and dynamic; and
- student and staff data elements that can be used to create information for
  - conducting the day-to-day administration of schools and school districts;
  - completing federal and state reports; and
  - creating indicators that address questions about the success and functioning of education systems.

Future Directions

The information needs of education systems are constantly changing and education information systems must be modified to meet those needs.

This report contains a process for identifying the data needed to accommodate these changes. Using the established criteria, items can be added and deleted over time. Moreover, school systems can use the elements that are locally relevant and add their own items to complement the set. The intent of this report is to assist in data collection and to facilitate the sharing of information through commonly agreed upon definitions.
Section II

Introduction
Section II
Introduction

Policy makers at all levels of the education system in the United States recognize the need for comparable and complete information about public education. The lack of high quality data, described in A Nation at Risk in 1983, is even more critical in this era of reform and greater school accountability. The solution to our data needs must balance the desire for a greater amount of local flexibility and freedom from regulations with the need to accurately monitor the progress of the students served with public funds. Governors, state legislators, other state and local policymakers, and the public want the capability to evaluate their schools by comparing them to schools in other states and nations. Such comparisons, however, are problematic if the information is not collected using comparable definitions, procedures, and time schedules.

In the United States, the public education system is decentralized. As a general rule, schools, school districts, and state education agencies collect education data for their own planning and operational needs. Most states do not share the same data requirements or systems for collecting and reporting data. In order for American education at all levels to operate effectively and continue to improve, a coordinated data system comprised of comparable and comprehensive information first must be established.

In recent years, the leadership for identifying and promoting “best practices” in the area of education data collection has come from the National Forum on Education Statistics, which consists of representatives from state education agencies, the U.S. Department of Education (especially the National Center for Education Statistics (NCES)), and professional education associations. The Forum, established by the National Center for Education Statistics in 1989 to assist with the implementation of Public Law 100-297 (the Hawkins-Stafford Education Improvement Amendments), has established various task forces to focus on issues related to data policy and cooperative data improvement at all levels of education governance.

This report presents the recommendations of one such task force. This document contains a set of recommended basic data elements that, if maintained at the school, district, and state levels in a standard format, will inform key decisionmakers charged with the responsibility for ensuring that schools meet the education-related needs of children.

The focus of this report is on early childhood, elementary and secondary education. The set of basic data elements reflects data needed for education-related activities. The set does not contain data elements on social services received by children or on juvenile detention activities. Data maintenance and reporting requirements in these areas vary considerably from site to site; therefore they were not included in the set.
The basic data elements included in this document will not meet every education information purpose. Although this document does capture many of the data elements that are needed for state and federal reporting, additional review of federal reporting data elements will be continued by the National Forum on Education Statistics, taking into account the changing data requests from the federal government. In addition, state and local data collectors must examine and incorporate those data elements that are critical for state and local reporting purposes.

The data elements included in this report were selected, in part, because they can provide answers to current key questions about the status, quality, and performance of the education system. Questions change over time. In addition, there are changes in data needs for reporting and for managing an education system. Thus, this report includes a process for identifying additional basic data elements as existing data systems are updated, or new ones established.

The National Forum on Education Statistics presents this report as a tool to guide state and local school systems in selecting the basic data elements that logically comprise an information system. These basic data elements can be used whether in a paper-based or computerized system or a combination of these media. Use of these recommendations is voluntary and the report does not imply that all of the listed data elements should be maintained by any agency. Each education agency must determine the extent to which specific data are needed.

The Role of the Basic Data Elements

The basic data elements are building blocks that can be used to create comparable education information at all levels of the school system. The most important use of this information is to help schools address the needs of students. Ideally, maintaining a comprehensive set of basic data elements (such as the set included in this report) at the school or district level provides the information needed for teachers to monitor student needs, parents to become aware of their children's performance, and principals to monitor students' performance and ensure that students have qualified teachers. Superintendents, boards of education, and the public can use the information to monitor the effectiveness of the school system and to know where education dollars are spent.

Many of these basic data elements already exist in school, school district, or state education agency data systems. However, they are often defined differently from site to site and from year to year. In addition, these data elements may be maintained in more than one place within a school or school district using different definitions or collected on systems that cannot be linked. This report promotes the use of a common vocabulary, which will increase comparability, reduce redundant data collection, and promote communication across jurisdictions.
Much information on students and staff relates to courses/classes, and this information is often kept in a school’s information file, rather than in an individual student or staff member’s file. At the time this list was identified, the task force did not address what data should be kept in a school file; however, consideration was given to what information must be maintained about a student or staff member and go with the person when transferring schools or employment.

Definitions of Data Elements and Indicators

Data elements are the basic units, or fields, in a database. Data elements can provide information about many entities: students, teachers, schools, and others. On a paper form or questionnaire, data elements are the individual blanks that must be completed.

Some data elements describe characteristics that rarely or never change, such as a student’s name or date of birth. Other data elements, such as a student’s grade assignment or a teacher’s years of experience, reflect conditions that change over time.

There is also a distinction between simple data elements that cannot be broken down into component information (gender, for example) and data elements that are aggregated or computed from others. Examples of the latter are a student’s grade point average or a school’s average daily attendance. The set of basic data elements includes both stable and changing information, and computed as well as simple data elements.

Indicators are data elements, or combinations of data elements, that provide information about the status of the education system. They are measures of “health” or progress in a system. Student assessment results answer questions about whether student performance is improving. Statistics on the number of discipline incidents at a school can address whether or not schools are safer than they were a decade ago.

The indicators discussed in this report are typically aggregate counts (such as the number of students with Individualized Education Programs or IEPs) or computed rates (percentage of students dropping out). The indicators used to identify elements for inclusion in the set of basic data elements do not refer to individual students or staff members, but are derived from individual records. For example, the number of students taking advanced placement (AP) courses is an indicator of school quality that is created from data about individual students. A database may contain indicators as data elements, or the components for indicators can be maintained in individual records, allowing the indicators to be computed when they are needed.

The Selection of the Set of Basic Data Elements

The set of basic data elements contained in this report was selected by education professionals at the local, state and national levels as essential to the operation, management, and improvement of local and state education systems and to the development of education policy at all levels. The first release of this report contains data elements related to student and staff members, particularly teachers. Data elements on school finance and facilities (and other identified areas) will be included in subsequent releases.

Several assumptions were made by the task force overseeing this project during the selection of the basic data elements.

1. Individual student and staff administrative records are maintained for administrative reasons at the school or district level and contain most of the basic data elements.
2. The selected data elements may reflect data collected on subgroups of students and maintained in specialized records systems.
3. Using identified standard definitions, formats, and collection procedures for the data elements (such as those from the Student Data Handbook\(^1\) and the Staff Data Handbook\(^2\)) enables data to be aggregated to provide comparable statistics at the school, district, state, and national levels.
4. The identified elements are applicable for data collection and reporting activities of both public and private education.

The selection of the set of basic data elements involved a process similar to the one presented in Section III of this report. Three activities were completed by the task force.

- Questions about the success and functioning of the schools were identified, followed by the selection of indicators that provide at least partial answers to those questions. Data elements needed to create the indicators were then identified. (See Appendix A for the list of key questions and indicators identified by the Task Force.)
- Student and staff data elements for completing reports to be submitted to federal agencies (and some state agencies) were identified.
- Data elements needed for the day-to-day operations of schools and school districts were identified.

Once the data elements were identified, the task force screened each of the basic data elements through criteria established at the beginning of this process.

- The data element should be collected on a regular and timely basis.
- The data element should be reliable.

The data element should be valid.
- The data element should be quantifiable or measurable.
- The data element has been consistently defined by a recognized body.
- The set of data elements taken together provides for valid measures of desired indicators.

Following the selection, various state and local educators were asked to review the set of basic data elements. Subsequent work will be done to analyze the feasibility of implementing the set by local and state education agencies, and to determine what types of assistance may be needed to promote implementation and maintenance of comparable data across education systems.

Contents of This Report

This report provides two major types of information for use by the reader. First, Section III describes a process that can be used by local or state education agencies to identify the data needs of the agency and to select the data elements. This process can be used by an education agency or school that is moving from paper records to automated records. It can also be used by those planning to revise or update their systems.

Section IV contains a description of how local and state education agencies can use this document to promote the maintenance of more comprehensive and comparable data for use in decisionmaking. The ideas contained in this section go beyond simply maintaining the set of basic data elements and include suggestions that support the development of a sound and useful information system.

Sections V and VI contain the specific data elements identified for inclusion in the set of basic data elements. These data elements are presented as a “first cut” or starting point for establishing and revising data systems. It should be remembered that use of this set is voluntary. Furthermore, data requirements change, just as our ability to maintain data efficiently and securely changes. The set of basic data elements will need to be revised over time in response to emerging policy needs and innovations in information technology, just as an education agency’s set of data elements should be periodically reviewed and revised.
Section III

A Process for Selecting Basic Data Elements
Section III
A Process for Selecting Basic Data Elements

This section describes the steps that can be used in developing a set of basic data elements useful to a school, school district, or state education system. The process helps produce agreement on a set of basic data elements, which in turn can reduce costly data collection redundancy, lessen the data reporting burden on respondents, and increase data comparability across systems. Though not all education systems share the same requirements or needs for collecting and reporting data, there is considerable commonality in education goals, objectives, and services across all levels and regions of the United States. When common definitions and formats are used for the data elements, aggregate data will provide comparable statistics at the school, district, state, and national levels.

The steps of this process are illustrated in figure III-(A). These steps can be used to identify a basic set of data elements for an education data system that will meet various needs.

Step 1 Identify Information Needs

Information is not without cost, and no data element should be collected unless a clear and specific need for it has been identified. All relevant parties—policy makers and other data users, potential providers, and data system specialists—should be included in the process of selecting data elements for a data system. The process should begin with an examination on a wide range of information needs. Three major areas for which education information is needed are: program administration, state and federal legislative and program reporting mandates, accountability, and policy planning.

(a) Identify information needed to administer programs

In general, schools, school districts, and state education agencies collect education data to meet their own planning and operational needs. For instance, principals need data about the number of students enrolled by grade level to plan for appropriate staffing and services.

(b) Identify state and federal legislative and program reporting mandates

A basic set of data elements should be applicable to the data collection and reporting responsibilities of the education system. For example, if the state legislature requires a report of the number of students participating in state-funded programs for gifted and talented students, then such information must be included in a school or school district database.

Step 1 Identify information needs
(a) Identify information needed to administer
(b) Identify state and federal legislative and program reporting mandates
(c) Identify key questions or indicators on education conditions

Step 2 Identify and define data elements that comprise the information needed.

Step 3 Examine the quality of data elements using the six selection criteria.

Step 4 Check the efficiency of the collective body of data elements.

Step 5 Update periodically the basic data set to reflect changes in information needs such as reporting requirements or education goals—conditions.
(c) Identify key questions or indicators on education conditions

Questions should be identified that are central to administrative or policy needs, help to monitor educational outcomes, and lead to formulation of effective education policies. Indicators that answer key questions concerning education conditions should also be identified. For example, student retention rates, together with students’ attendance patterns, suspension and expulsion rates, and mobility rate, are indicators for answering the question “Are students in school, that is, what are the patterns of participation in school activities?”

Step 2 Identify and Define Data Elements that Generate the Information Needed

This step calls for identifying and defining specific data elements to provide the needed information. For instance, individual student’s enrollment status, entry date, entry level, and exit/withdrawal date are data elements needed to generate the information concerning the number of students enrolled by grade level.

Step 3 Examine the Quality of Data Elements Using the Six Selection Criteria

The data elements identified are to be screened by the six selection criteria for technical quality and feasibility. (See exhibit III-(I))

Step 4 Check the Efficiency of the Collective Body of Data Elements

Review the efficiency of the overall set of chosen data elements. When taken as a whole, does the basic set of data elements provide a net savings in data collection and reporting efforts or a net gain in availability and utility of information? For example, student’s entry level does not need to be collected separately to calculate both the “student enrollment by grade level” and “student retention rate by grade level.”

Step 5 Update Periodically the Set of Data Elements to Reflect Changes in Information Needs Such as Reporting Requirements or Education Goals–Conditions

The set of data elements should be dynamic. As policymakers move in new directions, new information about the education system will be needed. A set of data elements should be updated periodically to ensure that it meets the information needs of the education system.
A school, district, or state education agency (SEA) could use this process to select the data elements to be included in a student information system. A SEA could also use this process to identify what aggregate or computed data are needed from schools or school districts. The SEA could then work with the schools and districts to ensure that the data elements have uniform definitions and the data are obtained using comparable collection procedures.

Exhibit III(I).—Criteria for evaluating the quality of data elements

1. The data element should be collected on a regular and timely basis. The data element should be one that is gathered and used on a regular basis. There is no efficiency in standardizing an element that reflects a one-time need or an unusual bit of information. In addition, the collection of this data element should occur at a time that is appropriate for the intended users.

2. The data element should be reliable. The data should be a consistent measure for every entity (such as individuals, schools, or districts) and from one time to another.

3. The data element should be valid. The data should measure what they purport to measure. A data element should reflect a logical and meaningful description of an entity, for example, an individual, a school, or school district, and it should not be easily subject to distortion.

4. The data element should be quantifiable or measurable. The data to be collected can be defined, listed, codified, or otherwise described in a consistent, readily interpretable manner.

5. The data element has been consistently defined by a recognized body. The data element should have a standardized definition so that data can be collected in a reliable manner. This definition should be one that is available from a legitimate professional source and is generally accepted by the field as appropriate.

6. The data elements together provide for valid measures of desired indicators. Desired indicators include measures of student or institutional performance, equity, and efficiency.
Section IV

Implementing the Basic Data Elements
Section IV
Implementing the Basic Data Elements

Adopting the contents of this report (or adapting it to local conditions) should increase the capacity of an education agency or school to respond to the questions of educators, the community, and parents about the functioning and effectiveness of schools. However, implementation requires the commitment of all those involved in providing, collecting, maintaining, reporting, and using the data. In this section are some general activities incorporating the set of basic data elements that state education agencies can use to support the development of a more effective information system at the state and local levels.

1. Adopt the Process for Selecting Basic Data Elements.

   The process described in Section III of this report provides for varying perspectives to be included in the selection of data elements needed for an information system. Allowing for considerable participation in the identification process can help to reassure participants that their perspectives are being taken into consideration and to build the commitment of participants to the final product. For instance, state education agencies (SEAs) could bring together representatives of schools and districts within the state to discuss information needs and ways to collect and record the information. If a SEA intends to collect individual student or staff data, district and school personnel should help to decide what data elements should be collected, when they should be collected, how the data elements should be defined, and how the data will be used. If a SEA does not intend to collect individual student or staff level data but wants to improve the comparability of data it collects in the aggregate, it could use the process to work with school and district personnel to develop a consensus on what data must be collected by all schools and districts within the state and what definitions and collection procedures should be used by all.

2. Incorporate the Process into All Data Planning and Development Activities.

   SEAs can use this report to review the contents of their existing information systems and the processes used to collect, analyze, and report data to education decisionmakers and the public. Data elements may be dropped from existing systems because they do not meet the criteria described in the review process. SEAs can look at where there is redundant and conflicting data collection, and bring data collectors and users together to ensure that data collection is done more efficiently and effectively. SEA staff can provide feedback to legislators on what data are available, and what it would take to get additional data to meet legislative needs for information. SEA staff can then review and select new software and hardware in light of information needs after they have completed the selection process.
Data obtained through a more coordinated and efficient information system should be more useful, and the state should have better information for making decisions about such issues as merging districts, building new schools, and revising school or program structures.

3. Use the Contents of This Report To Encourage Schools and Districts To Provide Better Quality Data.

SEAs that adopt Basic Data Elements from this report along with the definitions and selection process can use this report to help evaluate the quality of the data provided by schools and districts and encourage districts to adopt more comparable data sets. For instance, SEAs can return data to schools and districts if they do not comply with the definitions and collection procedures specified by the state. SEAs can use the comparable data from schools and districts to inform the public. Schools and districts that do not comply with data collection and reporting requirements would not be included.

4. Provide Training and Support For Schools and Districts To Use the Contents Of This Report.

Many SEAs meet regularly with SEA, local education agency (LEA), and school personnel responsible for collecting, reporting, and using data. These gatherings provide an excellent opportunity for local educators to learn what is desired by the SEA and where they might not be meeting reporting requirements. SEA personnel benefit from these meetings because they can learn what problems local educators are having in the collection and reporting of data, provide training and technical assistance, and build commitment to the provision of better quality data. SEA personnel can use the contents of this report to provide training to school and district personnel about how to make their information systems more effective and efficient. For instance, in their training materials, SEAs may include specific examples to illustrate the process of selecting basic data elements (Figure B on page 22) and to show how the six selection criteria can be used to evaluate the quality of data elements (Exhibit 2 on pages 23-25). SEAs can identify which Basic Data Elements they consider most essential, provide definitions for the data elements, and describe data collection procedures to ensure that schools and districts are providing comparable data.

5. Advertise Compelling Reasons for Districts And Schools To Use This Report.

State education agencies should share the contents of this report with schools and school districts, since educators at those levels also need to develop information systems to answer important questions of educators, the community and parents. Schools and districts are held accountable for the performance of their students. Local ability to address accountability issues depends on having good quality data available; therefore the process proposed in this report and the data elements recommended for inclusion in a data system can help schools and districts to ensure that needed data are available, interpretable, and useful.

Schools and districts can use the process and data element definitions included in this report whether or not their information systems are automated. These guidelines are relevant to paper-based systems as well as automated systems. Schools and districts with paper-based information systems can use this report when they review how they are currently collecting data to make improvements, and the guidelines can help them make changes that will position them for movement to automated information systems in the future.

An information system designed using the guidelines included in this report can result in a reduction in data burden and data duplication as well as improve the quality and availability of the data. The use of common data elements across school sites will allow for information to be compared so that outstanding programs or programs in need of assistance can be identified. Schools and districts with similar characteristics can be encouraged to share ideas that work with their students.

This report captures many of the data elements that are needed for state and federal reporting. However, additional review of federal reporting data elements will be continued by the National Forum on Education Statistics, taking into account the changing data requests from the federal government. In addition, state and local education agencies must examine and incorporate those elements that are critical for state and local reporting purposes.

6. Work With State and Local Software Vendors To Incorporate the Basic Data Elements and Their Definitions.

State and local education agencies can use this report to assist them as they review the contents of various administrative software programs to see if the Basic Data Elements are included. In addition, the process can help educators at all levels of the education system to encourage software vendors to provide products that meet the various analysis and reporting needs of schools and districts. By promoting the inclusion of the data elements as they are defined in this report, education agencies can ensure that the formats used will provide flexibility and address data collection issues in ways that will meet educators’ information needs in the future.

Conclusion

There are many ways in which state education agencies can work with schools and school districts to improve the collection and use of high quality data. This report addresses issues related to the selection of data elements to include in an information system that provides information for administering the schools, providing instructional services to students, monitoring the quality and progress of the education system, and completing reporting requirements. Through a collaborative process for reaching agreement on the inclusion of data elements in an information system, such as is described in this report, states can build commitment to the availability of high quality, useful data on schools. In addition, education systems can adjust to changing data needs as they promote improvement in the provision of services to students.

1 Identify information needs:
   (a) Identify information needed to administer programs:
       E.g., Number of Students enrolled by Grade Level
   (b) Identify state and federal legislative and program reporting mandates:
       E.g., Number of Students Participating in Individualized Education Program
   (c) Identify key questions or indicators on education conditions:
       E.g., Student Retention Rate by Grade Level

2 Identify data elements (DEs) that comprise the information needed:
   DE’s Enrollment Status; DE’s: Individualized Program Type; DE’s: Entry Level; Nonpromotion Reason
   Entry Date; Entry Level; Exit/Withdrawal Date

   and define data elements:
   Data Element No.1.: Data Element No.: 314 Data Element No.: 083; 158 073; 080; 083; 104

3 Examine the quality of data elements using the six selection criteria:
   (i) The data elements should be collected on a regular and timely basis;
   (ii) The data elements should be reliable;
   (iii) The data elements should be valid;
   (iv) The data elements should be quantifiable or measurable;
   (v) The data elements have been consistently defined by a recognized body, such as the Student Data Handbook;
   (vi) The data elements selected in Step 2 provide for valid measures of desired indicators listed in Step 1.

4 Check the efficiency of the collective body of data elements:
   • To reduce redundancy, the overall set of data elements needs only one data element for student’s “Entry Level,” though the data element is needed to calculate both the “student enrollment by grade level” and “the student retention by grade level.”
   • The overall set of data elements would be: “Enrollment status, Entry Date, Entry level, Exit/Withdrawal Date, Individualized Program Type, and Nonpromotion Reason.”
   • These data elements are defined at the individual student level from where non-personally identifiable information could be aggregated for local, state, and federal program administration, required reporting, and education condition indication.

5 Update periodically the basic data set to reflect changes in information needs such as reporting requirements or education goals—conditions.

Exhibit IV-(I).—Criteria for evaluating the quality of data elements, illustrated with examples

The six criteria for evaluating data elements are illustrated by examples of data elements possibly meeting or not meeting the criteria.

1. The data element should be collected on a regular and timely basis. The data element should be one that is gathered and used on a regular basis. There is no efficiency in standardizing an element that reflects a one-time need or an unusual bit of information. In addition, the collection of this data element should occur at a time that is appropriate for the intended users.

   Example: Student enrollment

   | ✓ Data elements such as Exit/Withdrawal Date and Exit/Withdrawal Type (e.g., transfer, graduation, illness, expulsion, dropping out) are maintained throughout each school year. These data can be aggregated at the end of a school year for reporting to the district or state. | ✗ Occasionally, there are one-time collections of data on particular activities of interests. These data elements, however, might not be considered basic in individual student or staff record systems. An example of such data elements would be number of hours students report watching television. |

2. The data element should be reliable. The data should be a consistent measure for every entity (such as individuals, schools, or districts) and from one time to another.

   Example: Student learning

   | ✓ Student's attendance status in a class provides reliable information about student's presence at or absence from each class period while school is in session. Compilation of these data results in total time spent in the class. | ✗ Information on time spent on homework or relevant educational activities outside of school is most likely obtained through surveys to parents. Data of this kind tend to be subjective in nature. This particular data element does not provide a consistent measure for every student. |
3. The data element should be valid. The data should measure what they purport to measure. A data element should reflect a logical and meaningful description of an entity, for example, an individual, a school, or school district, and it should not be easily subject to distortion.

<thead>
<tr>
<th>Example: Teacher qualification</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>✓ A valid data element to reflect whether an individual is authorized to teach a certain subject is the Teaching field or area authorized by an active teaching credential that the individual holds.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>✗ Time spent in past school year teaching a particular subject matter area does not specify whether the individual is authorized to teach a certain subject-matter area.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

4. The data element should be quantifiable or measurable. The data to be collected can be defined, listed, codified, or otherwise described in a consistent, readily interpretable manner.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Example: Professional development activities</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>✓ Number of Credits Earned by an individual who completes a course or activity could be a quantifiable and measurable data element for a staff record. (Another data element on the type of credits or units of value awarded for the completion of a course may be needed to specify whether the number of credits earned refers to college credit, Continuing Education Units, or other types of credits.)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>✗ Quality of a professional development activity is difficult to measure. There are still no data on professional development activities that are comparable across states.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>

5. The data element has been consistently defined by a recognized body. The data element should have a standardized definition so that data can be collected in a reliable manner. This definition should be one that is available from a legitimate professional source and is generally accepted by the field as appropriate.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Example: Uses of technology in schools</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>✓ In general, all data elements listed in NCES' Student and Staff Data Handbooks can meet this particular criterion. The definition of the data element Principal Medium of Instruction can be found in the Student Data Handbook. Listed options of this data element include computer-based instruction, distance learning, and interactive telecommunications.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>✗ On the other hand, consistent definitions concerning students’ access to the Internet or computers in schools are yet to be established.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
6. The data elements together provide for valid measures of desired indicators. Desired indicators include measures of student or institutional performance, equity, and efficiency.

| ✔  “Average subject area proficiencies by grade level” is an indicator of how well students do on state or local tests. Here a list of six data elements may be needed to provide the information for this indicator. They are: assessment content (e.g., arts, math, a foreign language), subtest type (e.g., reading comprehension, vocabulary), grade level when assessed, administration date, score results, and reporting method (the measure in which results are presented, e.g., letter grade, normal curve equivalent, percentile rank, pass-fail). |
| ✗ Given the same indicator, if any one of these six indicators is missing, there might not be sufficient information for answering what the average subject area proficiencies by grade level are. For example, if the data element grade level when assessed was missing, we would not know which grade level the student was in when he or she took the tests. As a result, we may be able to know what the average subject area proficiencies are, but we may not be able to know them by grade level of students who have taken the tests. |

Basic Data Elements for Student Information Systems
Section V
Basic Data Elements for Student Information Systems

This section contains a listing of the basic data elements identified for inclusion in student information systems. These data elements represent essential information about students that could be maintained at a school or district level by teachers or others with whom the student comes in contact. Definitions for the basic data elements are provided to promote comparability in data collection and maintenance in a paper-based or electronic information system. If these data elements were part of a student record system, they would provide information for:

- making day-to-day decisions about the provision of appropriate instruction and services to students;
- determining and acting on operational needs of schools and districts for students; and
- completing most reports required by local, state, and federal education agencies.

All of the data elements selected were assumed to be needed and, therefore, maintained at the school or school district level. Thus, school or district personnel should review the set of basic data elements to determine if the data elements fit their information needs. Some of the data elements may not be needed because of the level of the students or other characteristics of the school or students. It is expected that additional data elements beyond this set will be needed to meet local needs. The set of basic data elements is presented as a set that should be consistent across school sites and districts in order to provide important information for decisionmaking at the local and state levels.

Some states choose to maintain individual student records at the state level, and many of the data elements in this set are included in state-level databases. However, it is not recommended that all of the basic data elements be maintained at all levels of an education system. It is important for a state education agency to determine whether it needs to collect individual student data, and if so, what specific data elements should be maintained.

Considerations When Selecting Data Elements

The set of basic data elements for student information systems includes some data elements that do not need to be maintained about all students. For federal and state reporting, schools and districts must maintain data about student participation in state or federally funded programs. Not all students participate in these programs, therefore, program participation data will not be needed for all students. For example, data on Individualized Education Programs (IEPs) should only be maintained for those students participating in special education programs requiring IEPs.
Not all data must be maintained in the same paper file or computer file. Some data elements about a student may be maintained in a separate filing cabinet or computer. In order for the data to be maximally useful, however, the data should have a unique identifier for a student that can be linked with data on that student maintained in another file or computer. In addition, such a system of linked files can reduce data redundancy and burden by recording the information once in a system that can be accessed by all those who need it. This is particularly true with computerized information systems. By maintaining the data elements in a single location, there is a higher probability that data will be comparable, and not recorded with different definitions and formats.

The basic data elements included in this section were taken from the Student Data Handbook on Elementary, Secondary, and Early Childhood Education, developed by the National Center for Education Statistics. The Student Data Handbook contains a comprehensive listing of data elements that could be kept in a student information system. A major focus of this handbook is on standardizing data element formats for computer systems. The data elements reflect a consensus of persons in education as to the best and most flexible way to maintain student data. The data elements in the handbook are recommended, not mandatory. It is understood that many student records currently may not use the definitions or the exact formats included in the handbook. For instance, the handbook recommends the use of individual data elements for the various components of a student’s name. In the basic data elements, four of those data elements for “name” were considered essential: First Name, Middle Name, Last/Surname, and Generation Code. Some schools, districts or state education agencies may choose to have a single data element for a student’s name, rather than four. The use of four data elements provides more flexibility in a data system; however, is not necessarily essential for comparable data. In identifying the set of basic data elements there was a special focus on the need for comparability in how data are collected and reported. Users of this report may choose other data elements than those included in this recommended set; however, they should be sensitive to those data elements for which comparability is essential.

Student Data Elements

Included in the following are lists of:

- Basic Data Elements for student information systems; and
- definition of the Basic Data Elements for student information systems.

Data element numbers and definitions used in the lists are taken from NCES’ Student Data Handbook: Elementary, Secondary and Early Childhood Education. Information on formatting of data elements for information systems can also be found in the Student Data Handbook.

Definitions of Basic Data Elements for Student Information Systems

Entity Uses

Assessment—A tool, instrument, process, or exhibition composed of a systematic sampling of behavior for measuring a student’s competence, knowledge, skills or behavior. An assessment can be used to measure differences in individuals or groups or changes in performance from one occasion to the next.

Class—A setting in which organized instruction of course content is provided to one or more students (including cross-age groupings) for a given period of time. (A course may be offered to more than one class.) Instruction, provided by one or more teachers or other staff members, may be delivered in person or via a different medium. Classes that share space should be considered as separate classes if they function as separate units for more than 50 percent of the time.

Emergency Contact—An individual who is to be notified in the event of an emergency involving a student when the appropriate Parent/Guardian cannot be contacted.

Local Administrative Unit (LAU)—An administrative unit at the local level which exists primarily to operate schools or to contract for educational services. These units may or may not be coextensive with county, city, or town boundaries. Public school LAU’s are often referred to as Local Education Agencies (LEA’s).

Parent/Guardian—An individual having parental or legal guardianship responsibility for a student.

Program/Service—A program or service that supplements the regular school program or serves as early childhood education and care for children prior to reaching school-attendance age. These programs and services are often, but not solely, available through federal, state, or local agencies, non-profit organizations and/or other community-based organizations (or assistance provided by these entities). Services may be instructional or non-instructional in nature and may be provided within or outside of a school building.

School—An institution that provides preschool, elementary, and/or secondary instruction; has one or more grade groupings or is ungraded; has one or more teachers to give instruction or care; is located in one or more buildings; and has an assigned administrator(s).

Sibling(s) or Other School-Age Children Living in Student’s Household—Any brothers, sisters (including half brothers and sisters, stepbrothers and sisters, and foster brothers and sisters) or other school age children living in the same household in which the student resides.

Student—An individual for whom instruction, services and/or care are provided in an early childhood, elementary or secondary educational program under the jurisdiction of a school, education agency, or other institution or program.

Teacher—A professional school staff member responsible for providing learning experiences and care to students during a particular time period or in a given discipline.

1 These entities refer to persons, places, events, objects, or concepts about which data can be collected.
Student Data Elements

12 U.S. Department of Education, National Center for Education Statistics (NCES) number
13 Other organization number (e.g., Roman Catholic diocese or association number)
99 Other

Because of its sensitive nature, use of the social security number is often regulated by state or federal law.
Race/Ethnicity—The general racial or ethnic heritage category which most clearly reflects the individual’s recognition of his or her community or with which the individual most identifies.3

01 American Indian or Alaskan Native—A person having origins in any of the original peoples of North America, and who maintains cultural identification through tribal affiliation or community recognition.

02 Asian or Pacific Islander—A person having origins in any of the original peoples of the Far East, Southeast Asia, the Indian subcontinent, or the Pacific Islands. This area includes, for example, China, India, Japan, Korea, the Philippine Islands, and Samoa.

03 Black (not Hispanic)—A person having origins in any of the black racial groups of Africa.

04 Hispanic—A person of Mexican, Puerto Rican, Cuban, Central or South American or other Spanish culture or origin, regardless of race.

05 White (not Hispanic)—A person having origins in any of the original peoples of Europe, North Africa, or the Middle East.

Sex—A person’s gender.

01 Female—A woman or a girl.

02 Male—A man or a boy.

Birthdate—The month, day, and year on which an individual was born.

State of Birth—The name of the state (within the United States) or extra-state jurisdiction in which an individual was born.

(Note: A list of states and extra-state jurisdictions within the United States and their codes can be found in attachment V-(1).)

Country of Birth—The name of the country in which an individual was born.

(Note: A list of countries and their codes can be found in attachment V-(2).)

3 These categories for federal reporting are identified in the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission School Reporting Form (EEO-5). Category designations do not denote scientific definitions of anthropological origins.
Country of Citizenship—The country to which an individual acknowledges citizenship (if other than the United States).

English Proficiency—An individual’s adeptness at English as indicated by: a) reading skills (the ability to comprehend and interpret text); b) listening skills (the ability to understand verbal expressions of the language); c) writing skills (the ability to produce written text with content and format); and d) speaking skills (the ability to use oral language appropriately and effectively).

01 Fully English proficient—An individual who is able to use English to ask questions, to understand dialogue and reading materials, to test ideas, and to interpret what is being presented. Reading, listening, writing, and speaking all contribute to an individual’s proficiency in the language.

02 Limited English proficient—An individual with a language background other than English, and whose proficiency in English is such that the probability of the individual’s success in an English-only environment is below that of a successful peer with an English language background.

Language Type—An indication of the function and context in which an individual uses a language to communicate.

01 Correspondence language—The language or dialect to be used when sending written communication (e.g., letters, facsimiles, or electronic mail) to an individual.

02 Dominant language—The language or dialect an individual best understands and with which he or she is most comfortable. A person may be dominant in one language in certain situations and another for others.

03 Home language—The language or dialect routinely spoken in an individual’s home. This language or dialect may or may not be an individual’s native language.

04 Native language—The language or dialect first learned by an individual or first used by the Parent/Guardian with a child. This term is often referred to as primary language.

05 Other language proficiency—Any language or dialect, other than the dominant language, in which an individual is proficient.

Language—The specific language or dialect that an individual uses to communicate.

(Note: A list of languages and dialects can be found in attachment V-(3).)
Entity Uses: Student

032 Migratory Status—An indication that an individual, or a parent/guardian accompanying an individual, maintains primary employment in one or more agricultural or fishing activities on a seasonal or other temporary basis and establishes a temporary residence for the purposes of such employment.

01 Currently a migratory child—A child whose parent/guardian is a migratory agricultural worker or a migratory fisher; and who has moved within the past 12 months from one school district to another in order to enable the child, the child’s parent/guardian, or a member of the child’s immediate family to obtain temporary or seasonal employment in an agricultural or fishery activity.

02 Formerly a migratory child—A child who was eligible to be counted and was served as a migratory child within the past five years, but is not currently a migratory child.

03 Not a migratory child—A child whose parent/guardian is not a migrant worker.

Entity Uses: Student

Membership Information—Information indicating the period of time a student’s name is on the current roll of a class or school while the school is in session regardless of his or her presence or absence. A student is a member of a class or school from the date he or she enters until his or her name is withdrawn from the rolls (or after a pre-set number of consecutive days of absence based on state or local laws or regulations). During this period, the student is either present or absent on each day or half day during which school is in session.

100 Number of Days of Membership—The number of days a student is present plus the number of days absent when school is in session during a given reporting period.

Entity Uses: Student

Attendance Information—Information concerning a student’s presence, absence, and tardiness in a class or school. Attendance is the presence of a student on days when school is in session.

101 Daily Attendance Status—The status of a student’s attendance during a given day while school is in session.

- 01 In attendance/present—A student is present at school or is attending a school activity off campus which is sponsored by the school, is a part of the program of the school, and is personally supervised by one or more members of the school staff. This may include authorized independent study, work study programs, field trips, athletic contests, music festivals, student conventions, instruction for homebound students, and similar activities officially authorized under policies of the local school board. It does not include "making up" schoolwork at home or activities supervised or sponsored by private individuals or groups.

- 02 Excused absence—A student is not present at school or at a school-endorsed or sponsored activity, but is temporarily excused from attendance because he or she: 1) is ill and attendance in school would endanger his or her health or the health of others and; 2) has an immediate family member who is seriously ill or has died; 3) is observing a recognized religious holiday of his or her faith; or 4) is otherwise excused from school in accordance with board policies.

- 03 Unexcused absence—A student is not present at school or at a school-endorsed or sponsored activity without acceptable cause, parental knowledge, or authorization from the school administrator or his or her agent.

- 04 Tardy—A student is absent at the time a given class and/or half day of attendance begins but is present before the close of that class or half day. If a student is counted as absent but attends classes later in the school day, the absence may be changed to tardy.

- 05 Early departure—A student leaves school before the official close of the school’s daily session. Reasons may include a special activity for curricular enrichment, doctor’s appointment, and family emergency. Excused and unexcused early departures may be distinguished by state, local, and school regulations. When officially approved on a regular basis, early departures immediately prior to the close of the session are considered to be released time.

Entity Uses: Student

102 Class Attendance Status—The status of a student’s attendance at each class period while school is in session.

- 01 In attendance/present—A student is present at a class or is attending a class activity off campus which is sponsored by the school, is a part of the program of the school, and is personally supervised by one or more members of the school staff. This may include authorized independent study, work study programs, field trips, athletic contests, music festivals, student conventions, instruction for homebound students, and similar activities officially authorized under policies of the local school board. It does not include "making up" schoolwork at home or activities supervised or sponsored by private individuals or groups.

02 Excused absence—A student is not present at a class or at a school-endorsed or sponsored class activity, but is temporarily excused from attendance because he or she: 1) is ill and attendance in school would endanger his or her health or the health of others and; 2) has an immediate family member who is seriously ill or has died; 3) is observing a recognized religious holiday of his or her faith; or 4) is otherwise excused from school in accordance with board policies.

03 Unexcused absence—A student is not present at a class or at a school-endorsed or sponsored class activity without acceptable cause, parental knowledge, or authorization from the school administrator or his or her agent.

04 Tardy—A student is absent at the time a given class and/or half day of attendance begins but is present before the close of that class or half day. If a student is counted as absent but attends class later in the period, the absence may be changed to tardy.

05 Early departure—A student leaves class before the official close of the session. Reasons may include a special activity for curricular enrichment, doctor’s appointment, and family emergency. Excused and unexcused early departures may be distinguished by state, local, and school regulations. When officially approved on a regular basis, early departures immediately prior to the close of the session are considered to be released time.

Entity Uses: Student

Exit/Withdrawal Information—Information concerning a student who exits or withdraws his or her membership in a class, grade, or school during the regular school term or between regular school terms for known or unknown reasons. Membership usually is terminated after excessive consecutive days of absence other than for prolonged illness, upon the completion of school work, transfer to another school, dropping out/discontinuing school, or death.

104 Exit/Withdrawal Date—The month, day, and year of the first day after the date of an individual’s last attendance in school (if known), the day on which an individual was graduated, or the date on which it becomes known officially that an individual left school.

Entity Uses: Student

105 Exit/Withdrawal Status—An indication as to whether an instance of student exit/withdrawal is considered to be of a permanent or temporary nature.

01 Permanent exit/withdrawal—The student does not expect to return to membership in an educational institution.

02 Temporary exit/withdrawal—The student expects to return to membership in an educational institution.

Entity Uses: Student

106 Exit/Withdrawal Type—The circumstances under which the student exited from membership in an educational institution.
01 Transfer to a public school in the same local education agency—A student who transfers to a public school that is located within the administrative boundaries of the same local education agency.

02 Transfer to a public school in a different local education agency in the same state—A student who transfers to a public school that is not located within the administrative boundaries of the same local education agency but is in the same state.

03 Transfer to a public school in a different state—A student who transfers to a public school that is located in another state or to a United States overseas dependents school.

04 Transfer to a private, non-religiously-affiliated school in the same local education agency—A student who transfers to a private school (operated by a non-governmental, non-religious group or organization) that is located within the administrative boundaries of the same local education agency, including hospital teaching programs.

05 Transfer to a private, non-religiously-affiliated school in a different local education agency in the same state—A student who transfers to a private school (operated by a non-governmental, non-religious group or organization) that is not located within the administrative boundaries of the same local education agency but is in the same state, including hospital teaching programs.

06 Transfer to a private, non-religiously-affiliated school in a different state—A student who transfers to a private school (operated by a non-governmental, non-religious group or organization) that is located in another state, including hospital teaching programs.

07 Transfer to a private, religiously-affiliated school in the same local education agency—A student who transfers to a private school (affiliated with and operated by a non-governmental, religious group or organization) that is located within the administrative boundaries of the same local education agency, including hospital teaching programs.

08 Transfer to a private, religiously-affiliated school in a different local education agency in the same state—A student who transfers to a private school (affiliated with and operated by a non-governmental, religious group or organization) that is not located within the administrative boundaries of the same local education agency but is in the same state, including hospital teaching programs.

09 Transfer to a private, religiously-affiliated school in a different state—A student who transfers to a private school (affiliated with and operated by a non-governmental, religious group or organization) that is located in another state, including hospital teaching programs.

10 Transfer to a school outside of the country—A student who transfers to a school outside the country that is not a United States overseas dependents school (includes private and public school systems).

11 Transfer to an institution—A student who transfers to an institution that has an educational program. This includes mental health institutions, correctional institutions, juvenile service agencies, care shelters, and detention facilities.

12 Transfer to home schooling—A student who transfers to a period of instruction in a home environment for reasons other than health.
13 Matriculation to another school—A student who enters another school after successful completion and promotion from the highest instructional level of the current school to the next higher level.

14 Graduated with regular diploma—A student who has received a regular high school diploma upon completion of state and local requirements for both coursework and assessment.

15 Graduated with other diploma—A student who has received a high school diploma from a program other than the regular school program.

16 Graduated with other credentials—A student who has received a certificate of completion or attendance in lieu of a high school diploma.

17 Death—A student whose membership is terminated because he or she died during or between regular school sessions.

18 Illness—A student who left school for an indefinite period of time because of a physical, school-approved illness.

19 Expulsion—A student who left school involuntarily due to an expulsion approved by appropriate school authorities.

20 Reached maximum age for services—A student who left school because he or she has reached the maximum age to receive instructional services allowed by federal, state, or local laws.

21 Discontinued schooling—A student who stops attending school for reasons and a specified length of time considered by the state or district to constitute "dropping out."

97 Reason unknown

Entity Uses: Student

110 Expulsion Cause—The documented reason for expulsion.

Entity Uses: Student

111 Expulsion Return Date—The month, day, and year on which a student is allowed to return to school after an expulsion, as approved by appropriate school authorities.

Entity Uses: Student

C. SCHOOL PARTICIPATION AND ACTIVITIES

Session Information—Information about the type and length of a session for which class and performance information are recorded.

117 Session Type—A prescribed span of time when an education institution is open, instruction is provided, and students are under the direction and guidance of teachers and/or education institution administration. A session may be interrupted by one or more vacations.
01 Full year—A regular school term consisting of no major subdivision of time segments. It usually begins in the late summer or early fall and ends in late spring or early summer (e.g., elementary school).

02 Semester—One of two equal segments into which a school year is divided.

03 Trimester—One of three equal segments into which a school year is divided.

04 Quarter—One of four equal segments into which a school year is divided.

05 Quinmester—One of five equal segments into which a school year is divided.

06 Mini-term—A school term which is shorter than a regular session.

07 Summer term—A school term which takes place in the summer between two regular school terms.

08 Intersession—A short session which occurs between longer sessions.

09 Long session—A session that is longer than a semester but shorter than a full year.

10 Twelve month—An educational program that operates throughout the year.

99 Other

Entity Uses: School

Course Information—Information about the organization of subject matter and related learning experiences provided for the instruction of students on a regular or systematic basis, usually for a predetermined period of time (e.g., a semester or two-week workshop).

013 Identification Number—A unique number assigned to an individual, organization, or institution by a school, an education agency, a state, or other organization.

Entity Uses: Class

014 Identification System—A numbering scheme that is used for identification and record-keeping purposes by schools, social services, or other agencies to refer to an individual, institution, or organization.

01 Driver’s license number
02 Health record number
03 Medicaid number
04 Migrant student records transfer system (MSRTS) number
05 Professional certificate or license number
06 School-assigned number
07 Selective service number
08 Social Security Administration number6 (not generally used for class)
09 College Board/ACT code set of PK-grade 12 institutions
10 Local education agency (LEA) number

6 Because of its sensitive nature, use of the social security number is often regulated by state or federal law.
11 State education agency (SEA) number
12 U.S. Department of Education, National Center for Education Statistics (NCES) number
13 Other organization number (e.g., Roman Catholic diocese or association number)

Entity Uses: Class

123 Instructional Level—An indication of the general nature and difficulty of instruction provided throughout a course.

01 Remedial—A course offered for the improvement of any particular deficiency, including a deficiency in content previously taught but not learned.
02 Special education—A course that adapts the curriculum, materials, or instruction for students identified as needing special education. This may include instruction for students with any of the following: autism, deaf-blindness, hearing impairment, mental retardation, multiple disabilities, orthopedic impairment, serious emotional disturbance, specific learning disability, speech or language impairment, traumatic brain injury, visual impairment, and other health impairments.

03 Basic—A course focusing primarily on skills development, including literacy in language, mathematics, life and physical sciences, and social sciences and history.

04 General—A course providing instruction (in a given subject matter area) that focuses primarily on general concepts for the appropriate grade level.

05 Honors—An advanced level course designed for students who have earned honors status according to educational requirements.

06 Advanced Placement—An advanced, college-level course designed for students who achieve a specified level of academic performance. Upon successful completion of the course and a standardized Advanced Placement examination, a student may receive college credit.

07 Gifted and talented—An advanced level course designed primarily for elementary students who have qualified for and enrolled in a school, educational institution, or district gifted and talented program.

08 College level—A course, often taken at or in conjunction with a postsecondary institution, which contains instruction equivalent to a college-level course and for which a student may get college credit(s).

09 Untracked—A course that is not limited to one level of instruction so as to meet the needs of student groups at a variety of educational levels.

Entity Uses: Class

124 Descriptive Title—In departmentalized organization, this heading refers to the term by which a course is identified (e.g., American History, English III). In non-departmentalized organization (i.e., a self-contained course), it refers to any portion of the instruction for which a grade or report is assigned (e.g., reading, composition, spelling, and language arts).

Entity Uses: Class

131 Number of Credits Attempted—The number of credits that a student can earn for enrolling in and completing a given course.

Entity Uses: Class

133 Number of Credits Received—The number of credits a student earned for completing a given course.

Entity Uses: Class

136 Grade Assigned—A final indicator of student performance in a class as submitted by the instructor.
Performance Information—Information about the performance of a student in courses during a given school grading period, session, school year, or career.

142 Credits Attempted: Given Session—The total number of credits a student attempts to earn by taking courses during a given session.

Entity Uses: Student

144 Credits Attempted: Cumulative—The cumulative number of credits a student attempts to earn by taking courses during his or her enrollment in the current school as well as those credits transferred from schools previously enrolled in.

Entity Uses: Student

146 Credits Received: Given Session—The total number of credits a student earns by successfully completing courses or examinations during a given session.

Entity Uses: Student

148 Credits Received: Cumulative—The cumulative number of credits a student earns by completing courses or examinations during his or her enrollment in the current school as well as those credits transferred from schools previously enrolled in.

Entity Uses: Student

150 Grade Points Received: Given Session—The total number of grade points a student earns by successfully completing courses or examinations during a given session.

Entity Uses: Student

152 Grade Points Received: Cumulative—The cumulative number of grade points a student earns by successfully completing courses or examinations during his or her enrollment in the current school as well as those transferred from schools previously enrolled in.

Entity Uses: Student

154 Grade Point Average (GPA): Given Session—A measure of average performance in all courses taken by a student during a given session. This is obtained by dividing the total grade points received by the number of credits attempted for the same session.

Entity Uses: Student

156 Grade Point Average (GPA): Cumulative—A measure of average performance in all courses taken by a student during his or her school career as determined for record-keeping purposes. This is obtained by dividing the total grade points received by the total number credits attempted. This usually includes grade points received and credits attempted in his or her current school as well as those transferred from schools previously enrolled in.

Entity Uses: Student
Progress Information—Information about the nature of a student’s progress and academic honors received for each school term.

158 Non-Promotion Reason—The primary reason as to why a staff member determined that a student not be promoted (or be demoted).

- 01 Failed to meet testing requirements—The student has failed to achieve minimum state or local performance requirements on a standardized test for promotion to the next grade level.
- 02 Illness—The student has not received sufficient instructional time necessary to master the skills and content taught in a grade level due to his or her prolonged illness.
- 03 Immaturity—The student has not displayed the attitudes, understandings, feelings, and skills (with respect to social relationships and institutions) necessary for appropriate development at the next grade level.
- 04 Inadequate performance—The student has exhibited unsatisfactory performance of a given skill or mastery of content taught in a given class.
- 05 Insufficient credits—The student has failed to earn sufficient credit hours to achieve the minimum state or local requirement for promotion to the next grade level.
- 06 Prolonged absence—The student has not received sufficient instructional time necessary to master the skills and content taught in a class due to an excessive number of absences.

D. ASSESSMENT

Assessment Information—The general classification of an assessment administered to a student based upon the anticipated use of the information it provides. This also includes information which identifies the assessment.

188 Purpose—The reason for which an assessment is being conducted.

- 01 Admission—An examination used in the admission procedure for an educational program. It may be used as a part of a selective admission process for an educational institution or as a device for predicting the success of a student in an education program.

- 02 Assessment of student’s progress—An examination used to measure the progress of a student in a particular content area.

- 03 Development of individualized educational program (IEP)—An assessment used to determine whether a student is in need of special education and, if so, what types of special education services would most benefit the student. This information is often incorporated into a student’s individualized educational program (IEP).

- 04 Development of individualized family service program (IFSP)—An assessment used to determine whether a child is in need of early intervention services mandated by the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA). This information often contributes to the development of an individualized family service program (IFSP).
05 Diagnosis—An assessment (other than for the development of an IEP or IFSP) used to examine in-depth information about specific strengths and weaknesses in a student’s skill development.

06 Graduation requirement—An assessment given to students on the basis of which an appropriate state authority may certify that an individual has met state requirements for high school completion or graduation.

07 Instructional decision—An assessment used to determine whether the instructional path of a student should be maintained or altered.

08 Program eligibility—An assessment (other than for the development of an IEP or IFSP) used to determine whether a student is eligible to participate in a specific program.

09 Program evaluation—An assessment given to a student as part of an effort to evaluate a program’s effectiveness. Results of the assessment may or may not be reported at an individual student level.

10 Program placement—An assessment used to determine the most appropriate instructional program for a student.

11 School performance evaluation—An assessment given to a student to determine the effectiveness of a school or an educational institution. Results of the assessment may or may not be reported at an individual student level.

12 Screening—An examination used to determine the need for or suitability of additional tests in any of a variety of disciplines or for a specific reason (e.g., a home language survey to identify language minority students who may need assistance).

99 Other

Entity Uses: Assessment

189 Assessment Type—The category of an assessment based on format and content.

01 Achievement test—An assessment to measure a student’s present level of knowledge, skill, or competence in a specific area or subject.

02 Advanced placement test—An assessment to measure the achievement of a student in a subject matter area, taught during high school, which may qualify him or her to bypass the usual initial college class in this area and begin his or her college work in the area at a more advanced level and possibly with college credit.

03 Aptitude test—An assessment to measure a student’s potential ability to acquire specific knowledge or master a specific skill.

04 Attitudinal test—An assessment to measure the mental and emotional set or pattern of likes and dislikes or opinions held by a student or a group of students. This is often used in relation to considerations such as controversial issues or personal adjustments.
05 Cognitive and perceptual skills test—An assessment to measure components of a student’s mental ability such as visual memory, figure-ground differentiation, auditory memory, reasoning ability, and sequential processing.

06 Developmental observation—An assessment to measure a child’s development based on observation. This is most frequently associated with early childhood education and care. Areas of observation and/or evaluation may include, and are not limited to a child’s cognitive and language development, social and emotional development, hygiene, nutrition, and self-help skills, as well as gross and fine motor skills.

07 Interest inventory—An assessment used to measure the extent to which a student’s pattern of likes and dislikes corresponds to those of individuals who are known to be successfully engaged in a given vocation, subject area, program of studies, or other activity.

08 Language proficiency test—An assessment used to measure a student’s level of proficiency (i.e., speaking, writing, reading, and listening) in either a native language or an acquired language.

09 Manual dexterity test—An assessment to measure a student’s ability to move his or her hands easily and skillfully. This test may be used in the identification of aptitudes for certain occupations.

10 Mental ability (intelligence) test—An assessment to measure a student’s general ability to successfully and rapidly adapt to new situations and to learn from experience.

11 Performance assessment—An assessment to measure a student’s knowledge or skill by requiring him or her to produce an answer or product that is not necessarily in a standardized format. Examples of performance assessment include writing short answers, solving complex mathematical problems, writing an extended essay, conducting an experiment, presenting an oral argument, or assembling a portfolio of representative work.

12 Personality test—An assessment to measure a student’s affective or nonintellectual aspects of behavior such as emotional adjustment, interpersonal relations, motivation, interests, and attitudes.

13 Portfolio assessment—An assessment to measure the quality of a collection of student work or a series of student performances as interpreted by the student, a teacher, or an independent evaluator.

14 Psychological test—An assessment to measure a sample of behavior in an objective and standardized way.

15 Psychomotor test—An assessment to measure the motor effects of a student’s mental or cerebral processes.

16 Reading readiness test—An assessment to measure interrelated factors contributing to a student’s readiness to learn to read (e.g., linguistic maturity, experiential background, perceptual maturity, and responsiveness to books and storytelling).

191 Assessment Content—The description of the content or subject area (e.g., arts, mathematics, reading, stenography, or a foreign language) of an assessment.

Entity Uses: Assessment

192 Subtest Type—The description of the specific subject matter of a subtest (e.g., reading comprehension, vocabulary, mathematics, verbal, humanities, quantitative, geography) administered to a student as a part of a combined assessment.

Entity Uses: Assessment

193 Level (for which Designed)—The typical grade level or range of grade levels for which an assessment is designed.

Entity Uses: Assessment

194 Grade Level when Assessed—The grade level of a student when assessed.

Entity Uses: Assessment

Administrative Issues—This category contains information relating to the administration of an assessment to a student.

200 Special Adaptation—The description of any special variation in the administration of the test (e.g., untimed, use of sign language for hearing impaired, Braille test or large print form for visually impaired, or use of a reader or facilitator for autistic students).

Entity Uses: Assessment

201 Administration Date—The month, day, and year on which an assessment is administered.

Entity Uses: Assessment

Score/Results Reporting—This category contains information about assessment results, the manner in which they are presented, and factors which may influence their interpretation.

205 Norm Group—The group for which the scores of an assessment have been standardized for use in interpreting the results.

01 Annual user norms
02 Catholic school norms
03 Equated national norms
04 Independent school norms
05 International norms
06 National probability sample
07 Peer school norms

Entity Uses: Assessment

206 Norm Year—The year when the assessment was given to a sample of students for the purpose of establishing a standard of performance for that group of students.

Entity Uses: Assessment

207 Norming Period—The time of year when the assessment was given to a sample of students for the purpose of establishing a standard of performance for that group of students (e.g., fall, mid-year, or spring).

Entity Uses: Assessment

208 Score Range—The lowest and highest individual scores obtained by a group of students who are in the same norm group.

Entity Uses: Assessment

209 Reporting Method—The measure in which results are presented.

01 Age score—A derived score used to express a student’s test performance in terms of the developmental-level characteristic of the average individual of a corresponding chronological age. This is used more frequently with intelligence and achievement tests for children of school age or below. Scores can be applied to determine a student’s mental age (i.e., the average chronological age of students making a given raw score) or education age (i.e., test performance according to the norm age on any given level).

02 C-scaled scores—A score expressed in normalized standard score of eleven units.

03 CEEB-scores—A score developed for use with the College Entrance Examination Board tests and those tests by the Educational Testing Service as the basis for reporting scores on many of its other special program tests. It is similar to other linear standard scores but has a mean of 500 and a standard deviation of 100.

04 Grade equivalent or grade-level indicator—A derived score expressed as the grade placement of those students for whom a given score was average.

05 ITED-score—A score developed for use with the Iowa Tests Of Educational Development, but which is now also used with the American College Testing Program and other tests. This score has a mean of 15 and a standard deviation of five, and scores are based on a nationally-representative sample of tenth- and eleventh-grade students.

06 Letter grade—A letter assigned to a corresponding qualitative value. (e.g., A=Excellent, B=Above Average, C=Average, D=Below Average, and F=Failing). Corresponding numerical ranges may vary for each letter grade.

07 Normal curve equivalent—A score expressed in a normalized standard score with a mean of 50 and a standard deviation of 21.06. Scores range from 1 through 99 and an equal unit is retained in the scale.
08 Normalized standard score—A score that resembles standard scores (z-scores) but which is computed like percentile scores.

09 Number score—A number assigned corresponding to the total assessed quality of student response (i.e., the number of answers a student provides that are correct) or the level of a score using a holistic scoring guide usually used in writing assessments.

10 Pass-Fail—A score used to indicate whether a student passes or fails the assessment.

11 Percentage of items correct—A derived score used to express a student’s performance as a percentage of the maximum possible score.

12 Percentile rank—A derived score presented in terms of the percentage of students in a specified group who fall below a given score point.

13 Proficiency level—A standardized qualitative expression use to indicate a student’s functional mastery of a specific skill (e.g., novice, apprentice, or master).

14 Ranking—An expression used to indicate the position of a student relative to other students taking the same assessment (e.g., highest, second next highest, third, and so on). Since it is limited by the number of cases, rank is often reported with the total number of cases.

15 Ratio IQ’s—A score based on the ratio of mental age to chronological age. The ratio or deviation IQ has a common standard deviation for all ages covered by the test.

16 Standard age score—A scores used in connection with certain Riverside Press tests where the standard age score has a mean of 100 and a standard deviation of 16.

17 Stanine score—A score expressed in a normalized standard of nine units (i.e., 1-9). In a normal distribution, stanines have a mean of 5.0 and a standard deviation of 1.96.

18 Sten score—A score expressed in a normalized standard five units on either side of the mean. In a normal distribution, sten scores have a mean of 5.5 and a standard deviation of 2.0.

19 T-score—A standard score expressed with a mean of 50 and a standard deviation of 10.

20 Z-score—A basic standard score expressed with a mean of 0 and a standard deviation of 1.0. It is widely used in test-related research where the mean is 0 and the standard deviation is 1.0.

E. TRANSPORTATION

Transportation Information—Identifies information about a student’s transportation needs and services received.
Transportation Status—Information about whether or not a student is transported to and/or from school or receives services, aid, or payment in lieu of transportation.

01 Transported at public expense—The student is transported between home and school at public expense: 1) the parent/guardian is reimbursed for transportation directly; 2) the local education agency receives some state transportation aid; or 3) the local education agency assumes all transportation expenses.

02 Transported at reduced public expense—The student is transported between home and school at a reduced fare with the difference in rate subsidized at public expense. This includes situations where the student pays only a portion of the transportation cost to and from school (e.g., reduced rate bus or train tickets).

03 Transported, but not at public expense—The student is transported between home and school, but not at public expense. This includes situations where his or her parent/guardian pays the school or education agency for such transportation. Riding in a private vehicle, a motorcycle, and public transportation at student expense are also included.

04 Provided room, board, or payment in lieu of transportation—The student is provided room, board, and/or payment in lieu of transportation between home and school.

05 Not transported—The student is not transported between home and school, nor does the student receive any payment or service in lieu of transportation. This includes situations in which the student drives, walks, or rides a bicycle.

99 Other

Entity Uses: Student

Transportation at Public Expense Eligibility—The eligibility of a student for transportation between home and school at local public expense because of distance, disability, or other reasons.

01 Eligible because of distance—The student is eligible for transportation at public expense because of the distance between home and school.

02 Eligible because of disability—The student is eligible for transportation at public expense because of a sensory, physical, mental, or emotional disability.

03 Eligible because of disability and distance—The student is eligible for transportation at public expense because of a combination of his or her disability and the distance between home and school.

04 Eligible because of hazardous conditions—The student is eligible for transportation at public expense because the route along which he or she must walk is considered to be hazardous for reasons determined by state or local school authorities.

05 Eligible because of program for desegregation or integration—The student is eligible for transportation at public expense because of a locally initiated or court mandated program for achieving racial or cultural integration or for ending previous segregation.
06 Eligible because of special instruction—The student is eligible for transportation at public expense to other facilities to receive specialized instruction such as vocational training or magnet programs.

07 Not eligible—The student is not eligible for transportation at public expense between home and school.

F. HEALTH CONDITIONS, SPECIAL PROGRAM PARTICIPATION / STUDENT SUPPORT SERVICES

Disabling Conditions—Current health conditions (e.g., orthopedic, neurological, cardiac, or respiratory,) that have been identified by a health care provider or other qualified evaluator and may incapacitate an individual in any way.

269 Primary Disability Type—The major or overriding disability condition that best describes an individual’s impairment (i.e., the impairment that is most disabling).

01 Autism—A developmental disability significantly affecting verbal and non-verbal communication and social interaction, generally evident before age three, which adversely affects educational performance. Characteristics of autism include—irregularities and impairments in communication, engagement in repetitive activities and stereotyped movements, resistance to environmental change or change in daily routines, and unusual responses to sensory experiences. The term does not include children with characteristics of the disability “serious emotional disturbance.”

02 Deaf-blindness—Concomitant hearing and visual impairments which cause such severe communication and other developmental and educational problems that an individual with deaf-blindness cannot be accommodated in special education programs solely for deaf or blind individuals.

03 Hearing impairment—Either: 1) a hearing impairment which is so severe that an individual is impaired in processing linguistic information through hearing with or without amplification (which would be considered to be a state of deafness), and which adversely affects his or her educational performance; or 2) a hearing impairment whether permanent or fluctuating (which would not be considered to be a state of deafness) that adversely affects an individual’s educational performance.

04 Mental retardation—A state of significantly subaverage general intellectual functioning existing concurrently with deficits in adaptive behavior that is manifested during the developmental period, which adversely affects an individual’s educational performance.

05 Multiple disabilities—Concomitant impairments (e.g., mental retardation-blind or mental retardation-orthopedic impairments) which cause such severe educational problems that an individual with multiple disabilities cannot be accommodated in special education programs solely for one of the impairments. This term does not include deaf-blindness.
06 Orthopedic impairment—A severe orthopedic impairment which adversely affects an individual’s educational performance. The term includes impairments caused by congenital anomaly (e.g., clubfoot or absence of some member), impairments caused by some disease (e.g., poliomyelitis or bone tuberculosis), and impairments from other causes (e.g., cerebral palsy, amputations, and fractures or burns which cause contractures).

07 Serious emotional disturbance—Either: 1) A condition exhibiting one or more of the following characteristics over a long period of time and to a marked degree, which adversely affects an individual’s educational performance:

   a. An inability to learn that cannot be explained by intellectual, sensory, or health factors;
   b. An inability to build or maintain satisfactory interpersonal relationships with peers and teachers;
   c. Inappropriate types of behavior or feelings under normal circumstances;
   d. A general pervasive mood of unhappiness or depression; or
   e. A tendency to develop physical symptoms or fears associated with personal or school problems.

   or (2) A schizophrenic individual. This term does not include those who are socially maladjusted unless it is determined that they are seriously emotionally disturbed.

08 Specific learning disability—A disorder in one or more of the basic psychological processes involved in understanding or in using language whether spoken or written, which may manifest itself as an imperfect ability to listen, think, read, write, spell, or perform mathematical calculations. The term includes such conditions as perceptual impairments, brain injury, minimal brain disfunction, dyslexia, and developmental aphasia. The term does not include individuals who have learning problems which are primarily the result of visual, hearing, or motor impairments, mental retardation, emotional disturbance or environmental, cultural, or economic disadvantage.

09 Speech or language impairment—A communication disorder such as stuttering, impaired articulation, and language or voice impairments which adversely affect an individual’s educational performance.

10 Traumatic brain injury—An injury to the brain caused by an external physical force or by an internal occurrence such as stroke or aneurysm that results in total or partial functional disability or psychosocial maladjustment which adversely affects an individual’s educational performance. The term includes open or closed head injuries resulting in mild, moderate, or severe impairments in one or more areas including cognition, language, memory, attention, reasoning, abstract thinking, judgment, problem-solving, sensory, perceptual and motor abilities, psychosocial behavior, physical functions, information processing, and speech. The term does not include brain injuries that are congenital or degenerative, or brain injuries induced by birth trauma.

11 Visual impairment—A visual impairment which, even with correction, adversely affects an individual’s educational performance. The term includes both partially seeing and blind individuals.

12 Other health impairment—A condition that causes limited strength, vitality, or alertness due to chronic or acute health problems such as a heart condition, tuberculosis, rheumatic fever, nephritis, asthma, sickle cell anemia, hemophilia, epilepsy, lead poisoning, leukemia, or diabetes, and which adversely affects an individual’s educational performance.
271 Secondary Disability Type—A secondary disability condition that is identified with an individual, as distinguished from a primary disability.

(Note: A list of disabilities for data element 269 “Primary Disability Type” can be used as codes.)

272 Tertiary Disability Type—A tertiary disability condition that is identified with an individual, as distinguished from a primary disability.

(Note: A list of disabilities for data element 269 “Primary Disability Type” can be used as codes.)

Immunizations—Instances in which an individual is protected or immunized against specific diseases by inoculation or vaccination, or by having previously contracted a disease.

276 Immunization Type—An indication of the type of immunization that an individual has satisfactorily received.

278 Immunization Date—The month, day, and year on which an individual receives an immunization.

279 Immunization Status Code—An indication of circumstances or situations affecting the immunization of a student.

   Entity Uses: Student
Identification Procedure—A description of the procedures used to identify a student as eligible for student support services or special assistance programs in early childhood, elementary or secondary education. These programs supplement regular services offered by a school. Eligibility is based upon characteristics of the status or condition of the student, his or her family, or their community, as mandated by program criteria.

302 Identification Method—The manner by which information about a student’s potential need for special services was gathered. This information may suggest, but does not require, that a student receive supplemental services.

- 01 Education assessment—Use of a test or other assessment method to systematically evaluate a student’s knowledge and skills, including language fluency, to determine the academic placement of the student, other than for special education.

- 02 Health assessment/screening—A comprehensive health evaluation to detect physical conditions that impair or limit a student’s functional capacity, other than for special education.

- 03 Parent/guardian referral—A request by the student’s parent/guardian.

- 04 Physician referral—A professional recommendation or prescription by a qualified medical doctor or personnel.

- 05 Self report/survey—Information offered by the student or his or her parent/guardian in response to questions in an interview or on a questionnaire.

- 06 Special education assessment/evaluation—Programs offered by schools or those available through public or private agencies that administer tests that assess the suspected disabilities, strengths and learning modalities of students who have been referred for special education. These assessments are used to determine appropriate educational placement and to develop an individualized education program (IEP) that will meet the student’s special needs. Included are evaluations which measure the student’s social-emotional growth; personality characteristics, independent living skills, sensory-motor, language and intellectual functioning; hearing and visual acuity; articulation and fluency; and other factors that have an effect on the student’s ability to learn.

- 07 Teacher referral—The noted observation of facts about student behavior or actions by individuals who instruct the student.

Program Participation Reason—Identified status or reason that a student needs special or supplemental services.

01 Academic difficulty—An inability to reach or maintain expected educational levels appropriate for the student’s age group, measured competence, or grade level.

02 Academic excellence/enrichment—An ability to exceed expected educational levels appropriate for the student’s age group, measured competence, or grade level.

03 College admission preparation—A situation in which a student anticipates taking a college admission examination and subsequently participates in a preparation class.

04 Family background—A situation involving the student’s family background or preference which requires modification in programs.

05 Language difficulty—A barrier to normal communication in the instructional setting, including an inability to read, speak, write, or understand the instructional language.

06 Health reason—A physical condition or an identified disability that may restrict the student’s opportunities for academic success in regular classrooms.

07 Psychological reason—An emotional, attitudinal or behavioral condition which may affect the student’s ability to succeed in a regular classroom.

08 Socioeconomic reason—A disadvantaged status because of a student’s socioeconomic background which may affect the student’s ability to succeed in a regular classroom.

Entity Uses: Program/Service

308 Caregiver/Early Childhood Program Location—The site or setting in which a child receives his or her early childhood care, education, and/or services.

01 A child’s home—Care, education, and/or services provided in the child’s home.

02 A home other than the child’s—Care, education, and/or services provided in a home other than the child’s.

03 A public or private school—Care, education, and/or services provided in a public or private school facility regardless of whether the programs are run by the school.

04 A center in a facility other than a public or private school—Care, education, and/or services provided in a center or in an institutional setting housed in a facility other than a school building. Program services may be in a church, at a workplace, a community-based agency, a university, or a social services agency.

05 Hospital or other treatment center—Residential care, education, and/or services provided in a hospital or other treatment center in order to aid children with health problems or other disabilities.

06 Shelter or orphanage—Residential care, education, and/or services provided in a non-treatment setting considered to be a temporary substitute for a family setting. Examples include orphanages, shelters for abused children, disaster shelters, or homeless shelters. These settings do not include homes that may be temporary in themselves but comprise a regular lifestyle. For example, temporary housing for migrant children should be categorized as a "home" location. Programs for homeless children should be categorized under the appropriate definition for the type of program: as "home" if offered in a temporary shelter, as "center-based" if offered in a center or other institution.

311 Early Childhood Program Sponsorship—The type of organizational sponsorship of an early childhood program.

01 Public school sponsored program—Programs that are sponsored by a public school or local education agency.

02 Publicly sponsored program—Programs such as Head Start, Even Start, and Special Education that are sponsored by the federal government as well as programs such as "well baby" classes sponsored by state or local governments (including those programs sponsored by libraries and other agents of local government).
03 Non-profit and not-for-profit privately sponsored program—Programs that are sponsored by churches, charitable associations, private groups, employers, and similar organizations that provide services to children. They include non-profit and not-for-profit programs as specified by state and/or local authorities whether or not user fees are charged. They include tax-exempt and non-tax-exempt organizations as designated by the IRS using IRS rule 501(c)(3).

04 For-profit program—Programs sponsored by individuals or groups that have not been specified by state and/or local authorities as non-profit or not-for-profit organizations. They include tax-exempt and non-tax-exempt organizations as designated by the IRS using IRS rule 501(c)(3). Examples include independent, franchised, and chains of preschools, nursery schools, and day care centers.

Individualized Education Program Information

314 Individualized Program Type—A designation of the type of program developed for a student.

01 Individualized education program (IEP)—A written instructional plan for students with disabilities designated as special education students under the Individuals With Disabilities Education Act (IDEA-Part B) which includes: 1) a statement of present levels of educational performance of a child; 2) a statement of annual goals including short-term instructional objectives; 3) a statement of specific educational services to be provided and the extent to which the child will be able to participate in regular educational programs; 4) a projected date for initiation and anticipated duration of services; and 5) appropriate objectives, criteria and evaluation procedures and schedules for determining, on at least an annual basis, whether instructional objectives are being achieved.

02 Individualized learning program (ILP)—An instructional plan tailored for an individual student that serves as a framework for achieving both institutional requirements and personal objectives.

03 Individualized family service program (IFSP)—A written plan for providing early intervention services to a child (and his or her family) eligible under the Individuals With Disabilities Education Act (IDEA-Part B).

Special Program and Student Support Service Participation—Information regarding the student’s participation in one or more special programs after an identification process has been completed.

318 Special Assistance Program Type—Services that result specifically from the receipt of federal, state, and local funds or other assistance by the school, the school district, the student, or his or her family, as designated by a grant, act, or public program. Such assistance (e.g., Chapter 1 funds) is used explicitly for purposes specified by the appropriator. The allocation of funds is usually dependent upon the status or condition of the student and/or his or her family. Eligibility requirements may be based upon such diverse factors as income level, educational achievement, veteran’s status, obsolescent occupation, and/or disabilities of individuals within an identifiable population or carefully drawn geographic or political subdivision.

03 English as a Second Language (ESL)—Programs in which ESL students are placed in regular immersion instruction for most of the school day but receive extra instruction in English for part of the day. This extra help is based on a special curriculum designed to teach English as a second language. The non-English home language may or may not be used in conjunction with ESL instruction.

04 English language development—Programs of language development that go beyond the teaching of basic vocabulary and grammar skills, and are designed to parallel English language instruction for native speakers in content and approach. In such programs, English vocabulary and mechanics are often embedded in engaging content and/or literature.

05 Gifted and talented—Programs that provide special educational opportunities including accelerated promotion through grades and classes and an enriched curriculum for students who are endowed with a high degree of mental ability or who demonstrate unusual physical coordination, creativity, interest, or talent (often in the visual or performing arts).

06 Remedial education—Programs that are designed to develop specific cognitive skills, usually in language arts or mathematics, from a deficient level to one that is appropriate to the educational abilities and aspirations of the student.

07 Special education—Specially designed programs, at no cost to the parent/guardian, that meet the needs of a child with disabilities including classroom instruction, instruction in physical education, home instruction, and instruction in hospitals and instructions. The term also includes speech pathology, or any other related service, if the service consists of specially designed instruction at no cost to the parent/guardian and meets the unique needs of a child with disabilities, and is considered "special education" rather than a "related service" under state standards. The term also includes vocational education if it consists of specially designed instruction, at no cost to the parent/guardian, which meets the unique needs of the child.

08 Transitional Bilingual Education (TBE)—Programs in which reading is initially taught in both the students’ non-English home language and their second language (English) until their English is proficient enough for them to participate successfully in a regular classroom. Use of the non-English home language is phased out as regular English instruction is gradually phased in.

09 Vocational education—Organized educational programs focusing on the preparation of individuals for paid or unpaid employment, or for a career requiring training other than a baccalaureate or advanced degree.

10 Exam preparation education—A set of classes designed to prepare students for college admissions testing.

Entity Uses: Program/Service

322 Student Support Service Type—Type of related or ancillary services provided to an individual or a group of individuals within the formal educational system or offered by an outside agency which provides non-instructional services to support the general welfare of students. This includes physical and emotional health, the ability to select an appropriate course of study, admission to appropriate educational programs, and the ability to adjust to and remain in school through the completion of programs. In serving a student with an identified disability, related services include developmental, corrective, or supportive services required to ensure that the individual benefits from special education.
01 Adaptive physical education—Programs designed to foster the development of the following physical activities: physical and motor fitness; fundamental motor skills and patterns; skills in aquatics and dance, including individual and group games; and sports (including intramural and lifetime sports). This term also includes special physical education, adapted physical education, movement education, and motor development.

02 Art therapy—Programs that enable individuals who have mental, emotional or social problems to achieve self-expression and emotional release by communicating their emotions and conflicts graphically through painting, drawing, sculpting or other art forms. Art therapy can be used as a diagnostic tool or a treatment technique.

03 Assistive technology services—Programs that directly assist an individual with disabilities in the selection, acquisition, or use of an assistive technology device. Such assistance includes: 1) the evaluation of the needs of an individual, including a functional evaluation of the individual in his or her customary environment; 2) purchasing, leasing, or otherwise providing for the acquisition of assistive technology devices; 3) selecting, designing, fitting, customizing, adapting, applying, maintaining, repairing, or replacing assistive technology devices; 4) coordinating and using other therapies, interventions, or services (e.g., those associated with existing education and rehabilitation plans and programs); 5) training and technical assistance for an individual or, if appropriate, an individual’s family members; and 6) training or technical assistance for professionals (including those providing education or rehabilitation services), employers, or other individuals who are substantially involved in the major life functions of an individual with disabilities.

04 Audiological services—Services which include: 1) identification of individuals with hearing loss; 2) determination of the range, nature, and degree of hearing loss, including referral for medical or other professional attention; 3) provision of habilitating activities such as language habilitation, auditory training, speech reading (lipreading), hearing evaluation, and speech conservation; 4) creation and administration of programs for prevention of hearing loss; 5) counseling and guidance of students, parent/guardians, and teachers regarding hearing loss; and 6) determination of an individual’s need for group and individual amplification, selecting and fitting an appropriate aid, and evaluating the effectiveness of amplification.

05 Case management services—Programs that develop case plans for the evaluation, treatment and/or care of individuals who, because of age, illness, disability or other difficulties, are unable to arrange for services on their own behalf. The services also assess the individual’s needs, coordinate the delivery of services, ensure that services are obtained in accordance with the case plan, and monitor progress to ensure that services are having a desired impact.

06 Children’s protective services—Programs that investigate reports of child abuse, neglect, and abandonment, and provide for the temporary placement of a child who, for his or her own protection, has been removed from the custody of his or her parent/guardians. Program staff work with families that are experiencing the problem of child abuse with the objective of facilitating continued family unification or reunification. These programs also provide ongoing support services for children in permanent placement.

07 Early intervention services—A program which provides services that: 1) are designed to meet the developmental needs of each child and family eligible, and are focused on enhancing the child’s development; 2) are selected in collaboration with the parent/guardian; 3) are provided under public supervision by qualified personnel, in conformity with an individualized family service plan; 4) are offered at no cost unless subject to federal or state law mandating a system of payments (based on a schedule of sliding fees); and 5) meet the standards of the state. Early intervention services must be provided by qualified personnel.
08 Educational therapy—Programs that provide diagnostic and treatment services which combine psychotherapeutic and tutorial techniques for individuals who have learning disabilities such as dyslexia, perceptual problems, emotional problems or other difficulties.

09 Family counseling—Programs that offer therapeutic sessions that focus on the system of relationships and communication patterns between family members and attempt to modify those relationships and patterns to achieve greater harmony. The therapist focuses on the family as a unit rather than concentrating on the member who has been singled out as being in need of treatment.

10 Free-breakfast program—A federally-funded program that provides supplemental nutrition in the form of a free meal at the beginning of the school day for income-eligible students who are unable to pay the full cost. Public, private, and non-profit schools participating in the program are reimbursed for the breakfasts served. (See also option 25, Reduced-price breakfast program.)

11 Free-lunch program—A federally-funded program that provides supplemental nutrition in the form of a free meal at noon time for income-eligible students who are unable to pay the full cost. Public, private, and non-profit schools participating in the program are reimbursed for the lunches served. (See also option 26, Reduced-price lunch program.)

12 Guidance counseling—Programs that provide advice and guidance for students who need assistance in choosing courses or areas for major study, preparing for a vocation or further education, or coping with personal or learning problems.

13 Health care—Programs whose primary purpose is to help individuals achieve and maintain physical well-being through the study, prevention, screening, evaluation and treatment of individuals who have illnesses, injuries, or disabilities.

14 Interpretation for the hearing impaired—Services that enable individuals who have hearing impairments to communicate their needs manually, verbally or in writing.

15 Mental health counseling—Programs that specialize in the treatment of students who have adjustment or behavior problems, emotional disturbances, personality disorders, incipient illness, and/or other comparable conditions.

16 Music therapy—Programs that use music and music-related activities to help the student maintain mental functioning, to facilitate social and emotional growth, to promote communication, to develop constructive use of leisure time and to improve or maintain motor and perceptual skills. Music can be used as a passive agent as in the case of listening to music to aid in reminiscence, reality orientation or relaxation; or as an active creative process in which the client participates in musical production.

17 Note-taking assistance—Programs that assist students who are unable to make their own record of classes or lectures.

18 Occupational therapy—Services that address the functional needs of an individual relating to self-help skills, adaptive behavior and play, and sensory, motor, and postural development. These services are designed to improve the individual’s functional ability to perform tasks in the home, school, and community settings and include: 1) identification assessment and intervention; 2) adaptation of the environment, and selection, design and fabrication of assistive and orthodontic devices to facilitate the development of functional skills; and 3) prevention or minimization of the impact of initial or future impairment, delay in development, or loss of functional ability.
19 Orientation and mobility services—Programs that help individuals who are blind or who have visual impairments to develop the fundamental spatial concepts and skills that are necessary for maximum mobility and independent living. Instruction focuses on moving safely and efficiently in the school, home or community environment, and usually includes procedures for street crossings, travel in unfamiliar areas, utilization of public transportation, and appropriate use of aids such as sighted guides or canes.

20 Parenting skills assistance—Programs that offer classes, groups, or other educational opportunities for parents or potential parents who want to acquire the knowledge and skills to be effective in their parenting role.

21 Peer services—Programs that specialize in assisting the student through peer interaction. Such programs include peer counseling, tutoring, and leadership activities.

22 Physical therapy—Services to prevent or alleviate movement dysfunction and related functional problems that include: 1) screening of children and youth with disabilities to identify movement dysfunction; 2) obtaining, interpreting, and integrating information appropriate to program planning; and 3) providing direct therapeutic services.

23 Reader service—Programs that provide textbook reading services for individuals who are blind or have visual impairments.

24 Recreation service—Programs which may include: 1) assessment of leisure function; 2) therapeutic recreation services; 3) recreation programs in schools and community agencies; and 4) leisure education.

25 Reduced-price breakfast program—A federally-funded program that provides supplemental nutrition in the form of a reduced cost meal at the beginning of the school day for income-eligible students who are unable to pay the full cost. Public, private, and non-profit schools participating in the program are reimbursed for the breakfasts served. (See also option 10, Free breakfast program.)

26 Reduced-price lunch program—A federally-funded program that provides supplemental nutrition in the form of a reduced cost meal at noon time for income-eligible students who are unable to pay the full cost. Public, private, and non-profit schools participating in the program are reimbursed for the lunches served. (See also option 11, Free lunch program.)

27 Rehabilitation counseling services—Programs that provide a combination of treatment and education services designed to restore maximum functioning, a sense of well-being, and a personally satisfying level of independence in individuals who have temporary or permanent disabilities.

28 School clothing—Programs that pay for or provide new or used clothing to students who have nothing appropriate to wear to school and whose parent/guardians are unable to afford these items at retail prices.

29 School health nursing services—Services provided by a qualified school health nurse or other registered nurse/nurse practitioner.

30 Special transportation—Transportation arrangements provided to students to and from home, school, or other service sites.
31 Speech therapy—Individual or group therapy sessions which focus on the remediation of specific articulation problems including: 1) speech sounds that are omitted, replaced by substitute sounds, or distorted; 2) voice problems in which pitch, loudness or quality of voice are affected; or 3) stuttering.

32 Study skills assistance—Programs that provide individual or small group assistance for students who want to improve their study habits, test preparation skills and test-taking techniques.

33 Substance abuse education/prevention—Programs that provide a variety of services including: 1) individual, group, and/or family counseling; 2) knowledge and skill-enhancing activities; and 3) structured groups that focus on family dynamics, problem solving, self-esteem, and/or similar issues. These programs care for students who are at risk of drug abuse, e.g., those who are currently in an experimental stage (light use), who have family members or peer groups who use alcohol or drugs, or who have behavioral, emotional, or other problems at home, in school, in the community, or with the criminal justice system. Substance abuse education programs also offer presentations about the risks of substance use to students at their schools as well as in various other community settings.

34 Teen/adolescent family planning—Programs that offer family planning services including pregnancy counseling, birth control, and pregnancy testing which are especially designed to meet the needs and concerns of teenage students who are pregnant or are concerned about becoming pregnant or impregnating.

35 Test assistance—Programs that provide assistance for students with disabilities who need help in reading or writing responses to test items. Examples of such assistance include the administration of untimed tests and the presence of test facilitators for autistic children.

36 Translating/interpreting—Services that allow individuals who can not comprehend or communicate using either the spoken or written word to understand and express themselves (e.g., foreign language translator and sign language interpreter).

37 Tutoring services—Individualized or small group instruction for students who need assistance in learning one or more components of a prescribed curriculum. Tutoring usually supplements a regular school program, and may be provided by peer students, teachers, or other personnel at school, in an individual’s home, or at a community agency site.

38 Vision services—Services that include: 1) evaluation and assessment of visual functioning, including the diagnosis and appraisal of specific visual disorders, delays, and disabilities; 2) referrals for medical or other professional services necessary for the habilitation or rehabilitation of visual functioning disorders; and 3) training for communication, orientation and mobility, visual, and independent living skills, and any additional training necessary to activate visual motor abilities.

99 Other

Entity Uses: Program/Service

323 Transitional Support Service Type—Services that aim to: 1) strengthen and coordinate special programs and related services for individuals with special needs, including students with disabilities, who are currently in school or have recently left school and may benefit from assistance during the transition to postsecondary education, vocational training, competitive employment (including supported employment), continuing education or adult services; 2) stimulate the improvement and development of programs for secondary special education; and/or 3) stimulate the improvement of vocational and life skills to enable students with special needs to be better prepared for transition to adult life and services.
01 Case management services—Programs that develop case plans for the evaluation, treatment and/or care of individuals who, because of age, illness, disability or other difficulties, are unable to arrange for services on their own behalf. The services also assess the individual’s needs, coordinate the delivery of services, ensure that services are obtained in accordance with the case plan, and monitor progress to ensure that services are having a desired impact.

02 Communication services—Programs that help participants develop or refine their communication skills, usually by focusing on communication in a particular context (e.g., helping a parent/guardian communicate with a child or helping professionals communicate with their clients). Training may emphasize active listening skills, problem-solving skills, conflict resolution techniques, body language, empathy, sensitivity to the values and/or cultural background of others, genuineness and other facets of the communication process.

03 Community recreational services—Programs that provide equipment and facilities that ensure that individuals with special needs can participate in specific recreational activities, games, or sports of their choice, regardless of age.

04 Independent living—Assistance provided to individuals with special needs including those with disabilities: 1) to learn the basic skills of daily living through individual and group counseling and instruction; 2) to experience and practice coping with real or simulated life situational demands; or 3) to use assistive devices, special equipment, or specialized assistants.

05 Mental health services—Programs that provide services to individuals who have been hospitalized for treatment of acute or chronic mental or emotional disturbances, and facilitate their return to the community. The programs also offer psychiatric treatment in a setting that is less restrictive than inpatient hospitalization.

06 Residential services—Programs that provide a therapeutic living environment in community-based residential facilities for individuals with special needs, including those with emotional and/or behavioral problems. Such individuals require a structured, supervised treatment program which may include individual, group, family, and other treatment modalities as appropriate.

07 Supported employment services—Programs that find paid, meaningful work in a variety of integrated settings for individuals who have special needs, including those with developmental disabilities. Services include assigning a “job coach” to work side-by-side with each client, offering advocacy to the employer and other employees, training in basic job skills and work-related behaviors, assisting with specific tasks as needed, and providing initial and ongoing support as required to ensure that the individual retains competitive employment.

08 Technological aids—Structural or sensory aids provided to students with special physical or physiological needs in order to help them to better adapt to everyday work and/or learning environments.

09 Transportation services—Services that provide transportation for individuals, or make arrangements to transport individuals, to and from sites in which they are involved in vocational or life situations.
10 Vocational rehabilitation training and job placement—Programs that provide adaptive vocational training as a method of rehabilitating students with special needs, including those with disabilities. Program support continues beyond the rehabilitation and training phases, and includes job placement services.

Entity Uses: Program/Service

Special Program/Services Delivery—The prescribed and planned arrangement in which programs/services are provided, including the location, setting, funding, and timing.

327 Care/Service Intensity—The average number of hours or portion of hours per week that care, education, and/or services are provided to an individual.

Entity Uses: Program/Service

328 Care/Service Duration—The average number of weeks per year that care, education, and/or services are provided to an individual.

Entity Uses: Program/Service

329 Care/Service Beginning Date—The month, day, and year on which an individual first receives program services.

Entity Uses: Program/Service

330 Service Setting—The setting and circumstance in which a student is served (i.e., the educational placement of the student).

01 Early intervention classroom/center—A site at which early intervention services are provided.

02 Homebound placement instruction—Programs that provide itinerant instructional services for students who are unable to leave their homes to attend regular or special day classes because of non-contagious medical conditions, physical disabilities, or emotional problems. Teleclasses, which use special conference-type telephone equipment to provide instruction, may also be provided for these students.

03 Hospital placement instruction—Programs that provide itinerant instructional services for students who are unable to leave medical treatment facilities to attend regular or special day classes because of non-contagious medical conditions, physical disabilities, or emotional problems. Teleclasses, which use special conference-type telephone equipment to provide instruction, may also be provided for these students.

04 Regular class placement—A regular class in which students with and without special needs are served in a regular elementary or secondary school class (e.g., children and youth with disabilities are mainstreamed). This may include, for example, children with disabilities placed in: 1) regular classes which provide special education/related services within the classes; 2) regular classes which provide special education/related services outside the classes; or 3) regular classes with special education/related services provided in a resource room.
05 Outpatient service facility—Health center, clinics, departments within hospitals, and other facilities that provide walk-in, walk-out diagnostic and treatment services for individuals whose care does not require confinement or a hospital stay.

06 Private residential placement—Residential facilities not under federal, state, or local supervision or control that provide long- or short-term treatment and services, including special education and related services to children with and without disabilities.

07 Private separate day school placement—A nonresidential facility (e.g., a special education school building) not under federal, state, or local supervision or control in which children with special needs receive special education and/or other services.

08 Public residential placement—Residential facilities under federal, state, or local supervision or control that provide long- or short-term treatment, including special education and related services to children with and without disabilities.

09 Public separate day school placement—A nonresidential facility (e.g., a special education school building) under federal, state, or local supervision or control in which children with special needs receive special education and/or other services.

10 Resource room placement (pull-out program)—A classroom that is not a regular classroom in which children with special needs receive special education and/or other services. This may include children placed in resource rooms that provide special education/related services, or resource rooms with part-time instruction in a regular class.

11 Separate class placement—A classroom in which children with special needs receive special education and/or other services outside of the regular classroom. This includes only children educated on a regular campus. It does not include students who receive education programs in public or private separate day or residential facilities. It may include: self-contained special classrooms with part-time instruction in a regular class, or self-contained special classrooms with full-time instruction on a regular school campus.

99 Other

Entity Uses: Program/Service

Program Exit—Information regarding the termination of a student’s program/services.

334 Care/Service Ending Date—The month, day, and year on which an individual last participated in or received program services.

Entity Uses: Program/Service

335 Program Exit Reason—The documented or assumed reason a student is no longer being served by a special program.

01 Graduated with a high school diploma—The student received a legally recognized document certifying the completion of high school education.

02 Received certificate of completion, modified diploma, or finished IEP requirements—The student received a certificate or diploma, other than a high school diploma, signifying the completion of an individualized education program (IEP) or a secondary education program.
03 Program concluded—The student has completed the requirements and/or received all services constituting the program, or the program/service has ceased to be offered.

04 Reached maximum age—The student has reached the upper age mandate for providing special education and related services, or other program/services, as defined by state law, practice, or court order.

05 Returned to regular education—The student will no longer participate in special program/services currently being offered and will begin a regular program of education.

06 Refused services—Despite school recommendation and identified eligibility, the student (or his or her parent or guardian) refused services offered in special program/services.

07 Transferred to another district or school, known to be continuing in program/service—The student has enrolled in another district or school and will continue to participate in the program/service.

08 Transferred to another district or school, not known to be continuing in program/service—The student has enrolled in another district or school, but specific information about his or her program/service participation is not known.

09 Suspended from school—The student has been temporarily dismissed from school, and is precluded from participating in programs.

10 Discontinued schooling, special education only—The student with disabilities was enrolled in school at some point in the reporting year, was not enrolled at the end of the reporting year, and did not exit through any other basis (i.e., graduated with diploma; graduated with certificate; reached maximum age; transferred, known to be continuing; transferred, not known to be continuing; or died). This term includes dropouts, runaways, GED recipients, expulsions, status unknown, and other exiters.

11 Discontinued schooling, not special education—The student (who was participating in a program other than special education) was enrolled in school at some point in the reporting year, but was not enrolled at the end of the reporting year, and did not exit through any other basis (i.e., graduated with diploma, graduated with certificate; reached maximum age; transferred, known to be continuing; transferred, not known to be continuing; or died).

12 Died—The student’s name has been removed from school membership rolls because of his or her death.

G. DISCIPLINE

Nature of Offense—Information under this category contains data elements relating to the description and severity of the offense.

336 Offense Type—A violation or infraction of a specified code established by the school or civil authorities.
01 Infraction of school rules—An act committed or omitted in violation of any of the established codes of the school or school board of education.

02 Criminal offense—An act committed or omitted in violation of a civil law forbidding or commanding specific conduct and for which punishment is imposed upon conviction.

03 Chronic truancy—The act of staying out of school without permission for an unexcusable amount of time as determined by state and local policy.

99 Other

Entity Uses: Student

338 Offense Occurrence Date—The month, day, and year on which the infraction occurred.

Entity Uses: Student

339 Offense Occurrence Location—A designation or description of the site at which the infraction took place.

01 On school property—A location within the boundaries of school property.

02 A school-related function outside of school property—Any location beyond school boundaries where the school still has responsibility for the student (e.g., on a field trip or at an interscholastic athletic event).

03 A non-school related function without appropriate supervision—A function held at a non-school facility where appropriate supervision is not provided (e.g., a student in boarding school attending a party off-campus without parental supervision).

99 Other

Entity Uses: Student

Disciplinary Action—Information in this category relates to the type and extent of disciplinary action taken by authorities.

340 Disciplinary Action Type—The method of punitive or corrective action taken by the school or court authority to reprimand or rehabilitate a student after an offense is committed.

01 Community service—Service that is done for the community (often measured in hours served). Such service may include clean-up or any other type of work desired by the community.

02 Corporal punishment—An act of physical punishment (e.g., paddling a student).

03 Counseling (mandatory)—The act of requiring a student to participate in counseling services regarding the specific occurrence.

04 Demerit—A mark recorded against a student for poor conduct.

05 Detention—The act of mandating a student to attend supervised sessions during non-instructional hours.
06 Documented warning—An instance in which a student is officially admonished and/or advised about expected future action or conduct.

07 Expulsion—An action, taken by school authorities, compelling a student to withdraw from school for reasons such as extreme misbehavior, chronic absenteeism and/or tardiness, incorrigibility, or unsatisfactory achievement or progress in school work.

08 In-school suspension—The temporary dismissal of a student from classes by duly authorized school personnel in accordance with established regulation, served under supervision during school hours.

09 Letter of apology—The act of mandating that a student submit a formal letter of apology for an offense committed. Such an apology may remove the offense from the student’s record.

10 Out-of-school suspension—The temporary dismissal of a student from classes by duly authorized school personnel in accordance with established regulation, served outside of school.

11 Physical activity—An action taken by school officials, as part of a disciplinary process, that forces a student to participate in a physical activity (e.g., running laps or a specified number of push-ups).

12 Privilege restriction—The act of taking away a student’s privileges for a designated length of time (e.g., recess or access to the candy machine).

13 Probation—The act of restricting a student from school or school functions with terms and/or guidelines. Release from suspension is given after necessary terms of the action are met (e.g., a specified period of time during which the offense in question is not recommitted).

14 Referral to juvenile justice system—A disciplinary action in which school officials refer a student to the civil juvenile justice system for further action.

15 Reprimand—An action taken by school officials, as part of the disciplinary process, in which a student is rebuked for an offense.

16 Transfer to alternative program—An action taken by school officials, as part of the disciplinary process, that forces a student to enroll in an alternative program.

17 Transfer to institution—The withdrawal of a student from school by mandate of school officials or a court order and subsequent placement of the student into an institution.

18 Unsatisfactory behavior grades—An instance in which a student receives an official appraisal from school personnel that indicates unsatisfactory behavior.

List of Selected Programs Funded by the Federal Government

Included in this appendix is an alphabetical list of selected federal programs funded by the various education and non-education agencies in the federal government. These programs provide funds and/or assistance to schools, school systems, or non-education agencies (e.g., community-based organizations) to deliver instructional and/or support services to students and children prior to school age. These services may or may not be provided in school buildings. A complete list of all federally-funded domestic programs can be found in The Catalog of Federal Domestic Assistance, 1992 prepared by the General Services Administration. This document is available through the Superintendent of Documents, United States Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402.

Adolescent Family Life, Demonstration Projects—Promotes adoption as an alternative for adolescent parents; promotes community-based, family-centered approaches to the problem of out-of-wedlock pregnancy by encouraging abstinence from adolescent pre-marital sexual relations; and establishes innovative, comprehensive, and integrated approaches to the delivery of care services for pregnant adolescents, with primary emphasis on unmarried adolescents who are 17 years of age and under and for adolescent parents. (FEDERAL AGENCY: Office of the Assistant Secretary for Health, Public Health Service, Department of Health and Human Services)

Bilingual Education (Title VII Grants)—Develops and carries out programs of bilingual education in elementary and secondary schools, including activities at the preschool level, which are designed to meet the educational needs of children of limited English proficiency; demonstrates effective ways of providing such children with instruction designed to enable them, while using their native language, to achieve competence in English; or develops alternative instruction programs that need not use the native language; develops the human and material resources required for such programs; and builds the capacity of grantees to continue programs of bilingual education when assistance under this program is reduced or no longer available. (FEDERAL AGENCY: Office of Bilingual Education and Minority Language Affairs, Department of Education)

Chapter 1 Programs, Local Education Agencies (Chapter 1 Basic and Concentration grants)—Provides compensatory instructional activities to educationally-deprived children that reside in low-income areas and have been selected on the basis of a needs assessment. Services must supplement, not supplant, those normally provided by state and local education agencies. (FEDERAL AGENCY: Office of Elementary and Secondary Education, Department of Education)

Chapter 1 Program For Neglected and Delinquent Children—Provides for the special educational needs of children in institutions or community day school programs for neglected or delinquent children, and children in adult correctional institutions; Services must be used to supplement, not supplant, those normally provided with state funds. (FEDERAL AGENCY: Office of Elementary and Secondary Education, Department of Education)

Child and Adult Care Food Program—Assists states, through grants in aid and other means, in maintaining non-profit food service programs for children and elderly or impaired adults in public and private, non-profit, non-residential institutions providing care; family day care homes for children; and private for-profit centers that receive compensation under Title XX for at least 25 percent of the enrolled children, or 25 percent of licensed capacity, and under Title XIX or Title XX for at least 25 percent of the adults, who are enrolled in non-residential day care services. (FEDERAL AGENCY: Food and Nutrition Service, Department of Agriculture)

Child Welfare Services, State Grants—Establishes, extends, and strengthens, child welfare services provided by the state and local public welfare agencies to enable children to remain in their own homes, or, where that is impossible, to provide alternate permanent homes for them. (FEDERAL AGENCY: Administration for Children and Families, Department of Health and Human Services)
Childhood Immunization grants (section 317, Public Health Service Act; Immunization Program)—Assists states and communities in establishing and maintaining preventive health service programs to immunize individuals against vaccine-preventable diseases (including measles, rubella, poliomyelitis, diphtheria, pertussis, tetanus, hepatitis b, mumps, hemophilus influenza type b. (FEDERAL AGENCY: Office of Special Education and Rehabilitative Services, Department of Education)

Community-Based Service Learning Program—Supports programs to implement, operate, expand, and/or replicate a community-based program providing meaningful community service. (FEDERAL AGENCY: Cooperation for National and Community Service)

Demonstration Grants for the Prevention of Alcohol and Other Drug Abuse Among High-Risk Youth—Supports projects that demonstrate effective community-based models for the prevention, treatment, and rehabilitation of drug and alcohol abuse among high-risk youth. (FEDERAL AGENCY: Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration, Public Health Service, Department of Health and Human Services)

Drug Abuse Prevention and Education Relating to Youth Gangs—Prevents and reduces the participation of youth in gangs that engage in illicit drug-related activities; promotes involvement of youth in lawful activities; prevents the abuse of drugs by youth; supports the coordination of activities of local police departments, education, employment and social service agencies; provides information on the treatment and rehabilitation options available to youth; coordinates support between schools and state and federal governments; and provides technical assistance to eligible organizations. (FEDERAL AGENCY: Family and Youth Services bureau, Administration for Children and Families, Department of Health and Human Services)

Drug-Free School and Communities, State Grants (Drug-Free Schools and Communities)—Establishes state and local programs of alcohol and drug abuse education and prevention coordinated with related community efforts and resources. (FEDERAL AGENCY: Office of Elementary and Secondary Education, Department of Education)

Early Education for Children with Disabilities (Early Education Program)—Supports the demonstration, dissemination, and implementation of effective approaches to preschool and early childhood education for children with disabilities. (FEDERAL AGENCY: Office of Special Education and Rehabilitative Services, Department of Education)

Education for Homeless Children and Youth, Grants for State and Local Activities—Carries out the policies set forth in Section 721 of the Stewart B. McKinney Homeless Assistance Act of 1987, which provides activities for and services to homeless children and youth to enroll in, attend, and achieve in schools. (FEDERAL AGENCY: Office of Elementary and Secondary Education, Department of Education)

Education of Handicapped Children in State-Operated or Supported Schools (Chapter 1, ESEA Handicapped)—Provides programs that supplement services to children who are disabled and enrolled in state-operated or state-supported schools and programs to children who are disabled and enrolled in local education agencies that have transferred from a state school or program. (FEDERAL AGENCY: Office of Special Education and Rehabilitative Services, Department of Education)

Emergency Immigrant Education—Provides assistance to states for educational services and costs for immigrant children enrolled in elementary and secondary public and non-public schools. States provide funding to those local education agencies (LEAs) whose enrollment of immigrant children in elementary and secondary public and non-public schools is at least 500 or three percent of the total enrollment. To be counted, immigrant children must have been enrolled in U.S. schools for less than three years. (FEDERAL AGENCY: Office of Bilingual Education and Minority Language Affairs, Department of Education)
Even Start, Indian Tribes and Tribal Organizations—Provides family-centered education projects which help parents become full partners in the education of their children, assists children in reaching their full potential as learners, and provides literacy training for their parents. (FEDERAL AGENCY: Office of Elementary and Secondary Education, Department of Education)

Even Start, Migrant Education—Provides family-centered projects which help parents of migratory children become full partners in the education of their children, assists migratory children in reaching their full potential as learners, and provides literacy training for their parents. FIRST Family School Partnership—Increases the involvement of families in improving the educational achievement of their children in preschool, elementary and secondary schools. (FEDERAL AGENCY: Office of Educational Research and Improvement, Department of Education)

Follow Through—Sustains and augments in primary grades the gains that children from low-income families make in Head Start and other quality preschool programs. Follow Through provides special programs of instruction as well as health, nutrition, and other related services that will aid in the continued development of children to their full potential. Active participation of parents is stressed. (FEDERAL AGENCY: Office of Elementary and Secondary Education, Department of Education)

Foster Care, Title IV-E—Provides federal financial participation (FFP) in assistance on behalf of eligible children needing care away from their families (in foster care) who are in the placement and care of the state agency administering the program and provide FFP in the cost of proper and efficient administrative and training costs. (FEDERAL AGENCY: Administration for Children and Families, Department of Health and Human Services)

Head Start—Provides comprehensive health, educational, nutritional, social, and other services primarily to economically-disadvantaged preschool children, including Indian children on federally-recognized reservations, and children of migratory workers and their families; and involves parents in activities with their children so that the children will attain overall social competence. (FEDERAL AGENCY: Administration for Children and Families, Department of Health and Human Services)
Independent Living Services (Comprehensive Services, Part B)—Assists states to promote a philosophy of independent living, including a philosophy of consumer control, peer support, self-help, self-determination, equal access, and individual and system advocacy, in order to maximize the leadership, empowerment, independence, and productivity of individuals with disabilities, and the integration and full inclusion of individuals with disabilities into the mainstream American society, by providing financial assistance for providing, expanding, and improving the provision of independent living services. (FEDERAL AGENCY: Office of Special Education and Rehabilitative Services, Department of Education)

Indian Education, Grants to Indian-Controlled Schools (Indian Education Act, Subpart 1, Non-LEAs)—Provides financial assistance to Indian-controlled schools to develop and implement cultural enrichment programs for elementary and secondary schools that are designed to meet the special educational needs of Indian children. The schools must be located on or near a reservation and must be governed by an Indian tribe or tribally-sanctioned organization. (FEDERAL AGENCY: Office of Elementary and Secondary Education, Department of Education)

Indian Social Services, Child Welfare Assistance—Provides foster home care and appropriate institutional (non-medical) care for dependent, neglected, and disabled Indian children in need of protection residing on or near reservations, including those children living in the Bureau of Indian Affairs service area jurisdictions in Alaska and Oklahoma, when these services are not available from state or local public agencies. (FEDERAL AGENCY: Bureau of Indian Affairs, Department of the Interior)

Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention, Special Emphasis (Program Grants, Discretionary Grants and Contracts)—Develops and implements programs that design, test, and demonstrate effective approaches, techniques, and methods for preventing and controlling juvenile delinquency such as community-based alternatives to institutional confinement; developing and implementing effective means of diverting juveniles from the traditional juvenile justice and correctional system; programs stressing advocacy activities aimed at improving services to youth impacted by the juvenile justice system; model programs to strengthen and maintain the family unit; prevention and treatment programs relating to juveniles who commit serious crimes; programs to prevent hate crimes; and a national law-related education of delinquency prevention. (FEDERAL AGENCY: Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention, Department of Justice)

Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention, Allocation to States (State Formula Grants)—Increases the capacity of state and local governments to support the development of more effective education, training, research, prevention, diversion, treatment, and rehabilitation programs in the area of juvenile delinquency and programs to improve the juvenile justice system. (FEDERAL AGENCY: Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention, Department of Justice)

Magnet Schools Assistance in Desegregating Districts—Provides grants to eligible LEAs for use in magnet schools that are a part of approved desegregation plans and that are designed to bring together students from different social, economic, racial and ethnic backgrounds. (FEDERAL AGENCY: Office of Elementary and Secondary Education, Department of Education)

Medical Assistance Program (Medicaid; Title XIX)—Provides financial assistance to states for payment of medical assistance on behalf of cash assistance recipients, children, pregnant women, and the aged who meet income and resource requirements, and other categorically-eligible groups. Financial assistance is also provided to states to pay for Medicare premiums, copayments and deductibles of qualified Medicare beneficiaries meeting certain income requirements. (FEDERAL AGENCY: Health Care Financing Administration, Department of Health and Human Services)

Migrant Education, Basic State Formula Grant Program—Establishes or improves programs to meet the special educational needs of children of migratory agricultural workers or migratory fishers. Program funds are used for compensatory education programs for migratory children. (FEDERAL AGENCY: Office of Elementary and Secondary Education, Department of Education)
Model Comprehensive Drug Abuse Treatment Programs for Critical Populations (Critical Populations)—Enhances existing drug abuse treatment programs for specific populations called critical populations which include adolescents and juvenile justice residents of public housing, with the ultimate goal of improving treatment for these populations. (FEDERAL AGENCY: Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration, Public Health Service, Department of Health and Human Services)

Model Criminal Justice Drug Abuse Treatment for Incarcerated Populations, non-Incarcerated Populations and Juvenile Justice Populations (Criminal Justice Treatment Program)—Enhances drug treatment for criminal justice populations, including prisons, jails, probation and parole, juvenile institutions, as well as court diversion to treatment. (FEDERAL AGENCY: Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration, Public Health Service, Department of Health and Human Services)

National School Lunch Program (School Lunch Program)—Assists states, through cash grants and food donations, in making the school lunch program available to school students and encourages the domestic consumption of nutritious agricultural commodities. (FEDERAL AGENCY: Food and Nutrition Service, Department of Agriculture)

National Service Trust Program (Americorp)—Supports programs that address the nation’s human, educational, environmental, and public safety needs through service that provides a direct benefit to the community in which it is performed. Programs must also have an impact on their participants, developing public-spirited, effective citizens with the skills needed for life-long contributions to solving the pressing problems facing our communities and our nation. National service participants may not displace existing workers or duplicate their functions. (FEDERAL AGENCY: Corporation for National and Community Service)

Rehabilitation Services, Basic Support (Vocational Rehabilitation Services Program)—Assists states in operating comprehensive, coordinated, effective, efficient and accountable programs of vocational rehabilitation which assess, plan, develop, and provide vocational rehabilitation services for individuals with disabilities, consistent with their strengths, resources, priorities, concerns, abilities, and capabilities so they may prepare for and engage in competitive employment. (FEDERAL AGENCY: Office of Special Education and Rehabilitative Services, Department of Education)

School-Based Service Learning Program—Supports programs that involve school-age individuals in service learning projects. Funds programs that expand state capacity, provide teacher training, develop service leaning curricula, and establish effective outreach programs. (FEDERAL AGENCY: Corporation for National and Community Service)

School Breakfast Program—Assists states in providing a nutritious non-profit breakfast service for school students, through cash grants and food donations. (FEDERAL AGENCY: Food and Nutrition Service, Department of Agriculture)

School Dropout Demonstration Assistance (Dropout Prevention Program)—Provides financial assistance to LEAs, educational partnerships and community-based organizations to establish and demonstrate effective dropout prevention and re-entry programs. (FEDERAL AGENCY: Office of Elementary and Secondary Education, Department of Education)

Secondary Education and Transitional Services for Youth with Disabilities—1) Strengthens and coordinates education, training and related services for disabled youth; 2) assists in the transitional process to postsecondary education, vocational training, competitive employment, continuing education and adult services; and 3) stimulates the improvement and development of programs for secondary level special education. (FEDERAL AGENCY: Office of Special Education and Rehabilitative Services, Department of Education)

Services for Children with Deaf-Blindness (Services for Deaf-Blind Children and Youth)—Provides technical assistance to state education agencies and improves services to deaf-blind children. (FEDERAL AGENCY: Office of Special Education and Rehabilitative Services, Department of Education)
Special Education, Preschool Grants—Provides grants to states to assist them in providing a free appropriate public education to preschool disabled children aged three to five years. (FEDERAL AGENCY: Office of Special Education and Rehabilitative Services, Department of Education)

Special Education, Severely Disabled Program (Program for Children with Severe Disabilities)—Addresses the special education, related services, and early intervention needs of children and youth with severe disabilities. (FEDERAL AGENCY: Office of Special Education and Rehabilitative Services, Department of Education)

Special Education, State Grants (Part B, Individuals with Disabilities Education Act)—Provides grants to states which assist them in providing a free appropriate public education to all children with disabilities. (FEDERAL AGENCY: Office of Special Education and Rehabilitative Services, Department of Education)

Special Milk Program for Children—Provides subsidies to schools and institutions to encourage the consumption of fluid milk by children. (FEDERAL AGENCY: Food and Nutrition Service, Department of Agriculture)

Summer Food Service Program for Children—Assists states, through grants-in-aid and other means, to conduct non-profit food service programs for needy children during the summer months and at other approved times when schools are closed for vacation. (FEDERAL AGENCY: Food and Nutrition Service, Department of Agriculture)

Upward Bound—Generates the skills and motivation necessary for success in education beyond high school among low-income and potential first-generation college students and veterans. The goal of the program is to increase the academic performance and motivational levels of eligible enrollees so that such persons may complete secondary school and successfully pursue postsecondary educational programs. Except for veterans who can be served regardless of age, project participants must be between 13 and 19 years old and have completed the eighth grade but not have entered the twelfth grade (exceptions allowed). (FEDERAL AGENCY: Office of Postsecondary Education, Department of Education)

Vocational Education, Basic Grants to States—Develops more fully the academic and occupational skills of all segments of the population, principally through concentrating resources on improving educational programs leading to academic and occupational skills needed to work in a technologically advanced society. (FEDERAL AGENCY: Office of Vocational and Adult Education, Department of Education)

Vocational Education, Community-Based Organizations—Provides educational assistance to economically- and educationally-disadvantaged youth and individuals with disabilities who are not being adequately served by regular vocation education programs, through the collaboration of public agencies, community-based organizations, and business concerns, enabling them to succeed in vocational education. (FEDERAL AGENCY: Office of Vocational and Adult Education, Department of Education)

Vocational Education, Consumer and Homemaking Education—Assists states in conducting consumer and homemaking education instructional programs, services, and activities that prepare youth and adults for the occupation of homemaking through instructional programs which include the areas of food and nutrition, individual and family health, consumer education, family living and parenthood education, child development, housing, home management (including resource management), clothing and textiles. Emphasis is placed on programs located in areas for residents of economically-depressed areas and/or areas with high rates of unemployment. Programs are designed to assist consumers, and to help improve home environments and the quality of family life. (FEDERAL AGENCY: Office of Vocational and Adult Education, Department of Education)

Vocational Education, Cooperative Demonstration—Supports projects that demonstrate ways in which vocational education and the private sector of the economy can work together effectively to assist vocational education students to attain the advanced level of skills needed to make the transition from school to productive employment. Projects must also provide a basis for the preparation of an application to the Department’s Effectiveness Panel. (FEDERAL AGENCY: Office of Vocational and Adult Education, Department of Education)
Vocational Education, Indians—Makes grants and contracts with Indian Tribes or tribal organizations and Bureau of Indian Affairs funded schools to plan, conduct, and administer programs or portions of programs authorized by and consistent with the Carl D. Perkins Vocational Education Act. (FEDERAL AGENCY: Office of Vocational and Adult Education, Department of Education)

Women’s Educational Equity (Women’s Educational Equity Act Program)—1) Promotes educational equity for women in the United States; 2) promotes educational equity for women who suffer multiple discrimination, bias, or stereotyping based on sex, race, ethnic origin, disability, or age; and 3) enables educational agencies and institutions to meet the requirements of Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972 relating to non-discrimination on the basis of sex in federally assisted educational programs. (FEDERAL AGENCY: Office of Elementary and Secondary Education, Department of Education)

Basic Data Elements for Staff Information Systems
Section VI
Basic Data Elements for Staff Information Systems

This section contains a listing of the basic data elements identified as essential for inclusion in staff information systems. These data elements can provide information for determining staff assignments, monitoring issues related to staff quality, completing local, state and federal reports, and other activities related to staff development and evaluation. They also can help decisionmakers answer essential questions about the functioning of the school system.

The focus of these data elements is on teachers, teaching aides, principals, and other staff members with a direct instructional or service relationship with students. Much of the selection process for this group of basic data elements focused on the development of indicators related to the effective provision of classroom services to students.

Data about staff members are often maintained in different paper or computer files. The level of detail maintained depends on where the data are maintained and how they are used. Data may be kept in a licensure/certification file, a personnel assignment file, a payroll file, a retirement file, and perhaps others. As with student data, flexibility and usefulness depend on the extent to which data about a single staff member can be compiled from the various sources using a single identifier.

Similar to the basic data elements for student information systems, these data elements and their definitions and formats were taken from the Staff Data Handbook for Elementary, Secondary, and Early Childhood Education, developed by the National Center for Education Statistics. This information represents the consensus of many educators as to the most effective way to maintain desired types of information about all staff within education systems. As with the student data, not all data elements must be collected about every staff member, while in some cases to do so would be inappropriate.

Considerations When Selecting Data Elements

The set of basic data elements for staff information systems includes data elements about the staff member’s characteristics, educational background, qualifications, current employment, assignments, evaluation and separation from employment. All of these are considered important for maintaining records on teachers and others responsible for providing instruction and services to students.

Some of the data elements reflect new ways to record data on professional training, experience, and evaluation. Similarly, the Staff Data Handbook is structured to promote maintenance of information about staff members over time, an approach that differs from the common practice of letting new data replace old. Users of this report should consider these changes in what information on staff members may be needed, and how they can best record the information.
Staff Data Elements

Included in the following are lists of:
- Basic Data Elements for staff information systems; and
- definition of the Basic Data Elements for staff information systems.

Data element numbers and definitions used in the lists are taken from NCES’ Staff Data Handbook: Elementary, Secondary and Early Childhood Education. Information on formatting of data elements for information systems can also be found in the Staff Data Handbook.

Definitions of Basic Data Elements for Staff Information Systems

Entity Uses

Assignment—A specific group of activities for which a staff member has been given responsibility.

Education Institution—A public or private institution, organization, or agency that provides instructional or support services to students or staff at any level.

Employee Benefit—Any type of compensation: 1) provided in a form other than direct wages; and 2) established by or paid for in part, in kind, or completely by the employer or a third party (e.g., the government, a labor union, an insurance company, or a health maintenance organization). Benefits may or may not be required by law. These include employer contributions to Social Security, Medicare, unemployment insurance, worker’s compensation insurance, and retirement funds.

Employee Benefit Contributor—An individual or organization that donates monetary, in-kind, or other types of contributions to an employee’s benefit plan.

Evaluation—The process of ascertaining or judging the quality, value, or amount of an activity or an outcome by systematic appraisal of previously specified data in light of the particular circumstance and established goals and objectives.

Professional Development Activity—A planned, structured process through which an individual improves his or her job-related knowledge, skills, or attitudes. Such a process is designed to enable an employee to grow within a profession or organization or to attain an initial or additional credential.

Staff Member—An individual who performs specified activities for any public or private education institution or agency that provides instructional and/or support services to students or staff at the early childhood level through high school completion. For example, this includes: 1) an "employee" who performs services under the direction of the employing institution or agency, is compensated for such services by the employer, and is eligible for employee benefits and wage or salary tax withholdings; 2) a "contractor" or "consultant" who performs services for an agreed-upon fee, or an employee of a management service contracted to work on site; 3) a "volunteer" who performs services on a voluntary and uncompensated basis; 4) an in-kind service provider; or 5) an independent contractor or businessperson working at a school site.

Military Status—Information about an individual’s military service including dates of entry and discharge.

0330 Military Duty Status—The current military status of an individual.

01 Active duty—An individual who is currently engaged in full-time military service.

02 Ready reserve, selected reserve—An individual assigned to a unit designated by their Service and approved by the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff as essential to wartime missions. These units have priority for training, equipment, and personnel over other Reserve elements. Individual Mobilization Augmentees are members of the Selected Reserve not attached to an organized Reserve unit. They are assigned to an Active component organization, the Selective Service System, or the Federal Emergency Management Agency and fill individual billets required shortly after mobilization.

03 Ready reserve, individual ready reserve (IRR)—An individual assigned to a manpower pool of pre-trained members who have already served in Active component units or in the Selected Reserve. IRR members are liable for involuntary active duty and fulfillment of mobilization requirements.

04 Ready reserve, inactive national guard (ING)—An individual assigned to the Army National Guard who is on inactive status. (The Air National Guard does not maintain members in the ING.) Members of the ING are attached to National Guard units but do not participate in training activities. Upon mobilization under the required authority, they would report to their units. To remain members of the ING, individuals must report annually.

05 Standby reserve—An individual who has completed all obligated or required service or has been removed from the Ready Reserve due to circumstances of civilian employment, ineligibility for mobilization, temporary hardship, or disability. They maintain affiliation, but are not assigned to a unit and do not perform training. (Army National Guard and Air National Guard do not have a Standby Reserve.)
06 Retired reserve—An individual placed on retired status based upon the completion of 20 or more qualifying years of individual or combined Reserve and Active component service.

Entity Uses: Assignment

2460 Program Type—The system outlining instructional or non-instructional activities and procedures designed to accomplish a predetermined educational objective or set of objectives or to provide support services to individuals and/or the community.

(Note: This data element has two or more levels of options that are coded with four-digit numbers in order to better clarify the logical hierarchy of the option list.)
0100 Regular education—A program that provides students from the prekindergarten level to grade 12 with learning experiences that focus primarily on knowledge and skills for the appropriate age or grade level of students. This contrasts with that designed to improve or overcome physical, mental, social, and/or emotional disabilities.

0200 Special education services—A service, specially designed and at no cost to the parent/guardian, that adapts the curriculum, materials, or instruction for students identified as needing special education. This may include instruction for students with any of the following: autism, deaf-blindness, hearing impairment, mental retardation, multiple disabilities, orthopedic impairment, serious emotional disturbance, specific learning disability, speech or language impairment, traumatic brain injury, visual impairment, and other health impairments.

0201 Early identification—A service that develops and implements organized plans for locating and identifying children who have targeted disabling conditions and who qualify for various types of assistance under specific legislation.

0202 Early intervention—A service which provides services that: 1) are designed to meet the developmental needs of each child and family eligible, and are focused on enhancing the child’s development; 2) are selected in collaboration with the parent/guardian; 3) are provided under public supervision by qualified personnel, in conformity with an individualized family service plan; 4) are offered at no cost unless subject to federal or state law mandating a system of payments (based on a schedule of sliding fees); and 5) meet the standards of the state. Early intervention services must be provided by qualified personnel.

0203 Service for individuals with autism—A service of instruction or services for students with a developmental disability significantly affecting verbal and non-verbal communication and social interaction, generally evident before age three, which adversely affects educational performance. Characteristics of autism include irregularities and impairments in communication, engagement in repetitive activities and stereotyped movements, resistance to environmental change or change in daily routines, and unusual responses to sensory experiences. This does not include services for children with characteristics of the disability “serious emotional disturbance.”

0204 Service for individuals with deaf-blindness—A service of instruction or services for students with concomitant hearing and visual impairments which cause such severe communication and other developmental and educational problems that an individual with deaf-blindness cannot be accommodated in special education services solely for deaf or blind individuals.

0205 Service for individuals with mental retardation—A service of instruction or services for students with significantly subaverage general intellectual functioning existing concurrently with deficits in adaptive behavior that is manifested during the developmental period, which adversely affects an individual’s educational performance.

0206 Service for individuals with hearing impairment—A service of instruction or services for students with either: 1) a hearing impairment which is so severe that an individual is impaired in processing linguistic information through hearing with or without amplification (which would be considered to be a state of deafness), and which adversely affects his or her educational performance; or 2) a hearing impairment whether permanent or fluctuating (which would not be considered to be a state of deafness) that adversely affects an individual’s educational performance.
0207 Service for individuals with visual impairment—A service of instruction or services for students with a visual impairment which, even with correction, adversely affects an individual’s educational performance. This includes service for both partially seeing and blind individuals.

0208 Service for individuals with orthopedic impairment—A service of instruction or services for students who have a severe orthopedic impairment which adversely affects an individual’s educational performance. The term includes impairments caused by congenital anomaly (e.g., clubfoot or absence of some member), impairments caused by some disease (e.g., poliomyelitis or bone tuberculosis), and impairments from other causes (e.g., cerebral palsy, amputations, and fractures or burns which cause contractures).

0209 Service for individuals with speech or language impairment—A service of instruction or services for those students who have a communication disorder such as stuttering, impaired articulation, and language or voice impairments which adversely affect an individual’s educational performance.

0210 Service for individuals with serious emotional disturbance—A service of instruction or services for: 1) those individuals exhibiting one or more of the following characteristics over a long period of time and to a marked degree, which adversely affects an individual’s performance:

   a. An inability to learn that cannot be explained by intellectual, sensory, or health factors;
   b. An inability to build or maintain satisfactory interpersonal relationships with peers and teachers;
   c. Inappropriate types of behavior or feelings under normal circumstances;
   d. A general pervasive mood of unhappiness or depression; or
   e. A tendency to develop physical symptoms or fears associated with personal or work problems.

or 2) schizophrenic individuals. This does not include services for those individuals who are socially maladjusted unless it is determined that they are seriously emotionally disturbed.

0211 Service for individuals with specific learning disabilities—A service of instruction or services for those students who have a disorder in one or more of the basic psychological processes involved in understanding or in using language whether spoken or written, which may manifest itself as an imperfect ability to listen, think, read, write, spell, or perform mathematical calculations. This includes services for individuals with such conditions as perceptual impairments, brain injury, minimal brain disfunction, dyslexia, and developmental aphasia; but does not include individuals who have learning problems which are primarily the result of visual, hearing, or motor impairments, mental retardation, emotional disturbance or environmental, cultural, or economic disadvantage.

0212 Service for individuals with multiple disabilities—A service of instruction or services for those students who have concomitant impairments (e.g., mental retardation-blind or mental retardation-orthopedic impairments) which cause such severe educational problems that an individual with multiple disabilities cannot be accommodated in special education services solely for one of the impairments. This does not include deaf-blindness.
0213 Service for individuals with traumatic brain injury—A service of instruction or services for those individuals with an injury to the brain caused by an external physical force or by an internal occurrence such as stroke or aneurysm that results in total or partial functional disability or psychosocial maladjustment which adversely affects an individual’s educational performance. The term includes open or closed head injuries resulting in mild, moderate, or severe impairments in one or more areas including cognition, language, memory, attention, reasoning, abstract thinking, judgment, problem-solving, sensory, perceptual and motor abilities, psychosocial behavior, physical functions, information processing, and speech. The term does not include brain injuries that are congenital or degenerative, or brain injuries induced by birth trauma.

0214 Service for individuals with other health impairment—A service of instruction or services for those students who have a condition that causes limited strength, vitality, or alertness due to chronic or acute health problems such as a heart condition, tuberculosis, rheumatic fever, nephritis, asthma, sickle cell anemia, hemophilia, epilepsy, lead poisoning, leukemia, or diabetes, and which adversely affects an individual’s educational performance.

0215 Cross categorical—A service of instruction or services that focuses on more than one specific type of disability and in which individuals with different types of disabilities are served.

0299 Other—Other special education service which cannot be classified above.

0300 Vocational education—Organized educational programs offering a sequence of courses that are directly related to the preparation of individuals for paid or unpaid employment in current or emerging occupations requiring other than a baccalaureate or advanced degree.

0301 Agriculture—A vocational program that prepares students with the knowledge, skills, and understanding necessary to enter a wide range of agriculturally related occupations.

0304 Health—A vocational program that prepares students with the knowledge, skills, and understanding necessary to enter a wide range of occupations that support health professionals.

0305 Technology/industrial arts—A vocational program that prepares students with the understanding about all aspects of industry and technology. These activities include experimenting, designing, constructing, and evaluating; using tools, machines, materials; and using processes which may help individuals make informed and meaningful occupational choices, or may prepare them to enter advanced trade, industrial or technical education programs.

0306 Occupational home economics—A vocational program that prepares students with the knowledge, skills, and understanding relevant to occupational home economics.
0307 Business—A vocational program that prepares, upgrades, or retrains students for selected business occupations.

0308 Technical—A vocational program that prepares students for job opportunities in a specialized field of technology.

0309 Trade and industrial—A vocational program that prepares students for initial employment in a wide range of trade and industrial occupations.

0399 Other vocational education—Other vocational education activities that cannot be classified by the categories above.

0400 Technical preparatory—A program that offers four-year planned sequence of vocational-technical instruction beginning in the eleventh year of high school. The sequence extends through two years of postsecondary occupational education or an apprenticeship program of at least two years following secondary instruction, and culminates in a certificate or associate degree.

0500 Head Start—A federally funded child development program that provides health, educational, nutritional, social, and other services primarily to economically disadvantaged preschool children, including Indian children on federally recognized reservations, and children of migratory workers and their families; and involves parents in activities with their children so that the children will attain overall social competence. Examples of Head Start demonstration projects include Comprehensive Child Development Program, Family Service Centers, and Head Start/Public School Early Childhood Transition Projects.

0600 Even Start—A program that provides family-centered education projects which help parents become full partners in the education of their children, assists children in reaching their full potential as learners, and provides literacy training for their parents. The purpose of this program is to integrate early childhood education and adult education for parents into a program that builds on existing community resources.

0700 Migrant education—A program of instruction and services for those children who move periodically with their families from one school to another in a different geographical area in order that a parent or other member of the immediate family may secure seasonal employment.

0800 Indian education—A program of instruction and services for those children who are American Indian or Alaskan natives.

0900 Compensatory services for disadvantaged students—A program of instruction and/or services which is designed for economically disadvantaged and/or academically challenged children. Services primarily consist of educational support services, counseling, and other supplemental non-instructional support.

1000 Bilingual education program—A program of instruction and services that uses more than one language to teach a content area. Students served by this program may or may not be proficient in English.

1001 Curriculum content in native language—A program in which instruction and academic content are taught in a student’s native, non-English language.
1002 Developmental bilingual education—A program in which students with the same non-English language background receive language arts and content area instruction in both the student’s native language and English.

1003 Native language support—A program in which reading is initially taught in both the students’ non-English home language and their second language (English) until their English is proficient enough for them to participate successfully in a regular classroom. Use of the non-English home language is phased out as regular English instruction is gradually phased in. This is also known as transitional bilingual education.

1004 Two-way bilingual education—A program in which native English-speaking and non-native-English speaking students are placed together to receive language arts and content area instruction in English and another non-English language.

1100 English as a second language (ESL) program—A program of instruction and services in which students identified as limited English proficient are placed in regular immersion instruction for most of the school day but receive extra instruction in English for part of the day. This extra help is based on a special curriculum designed to teach English as a second language and to develop the student’s ability to use the English language in an academic setting. The non-English home language may or may not be used in conjunction with ESL instruction.

1101 Content ESL—A program of language development that goes beyond the teaching of basic vocabulary and grammar skills, and is designed to parallel English language instruction for native speakers in content and approach; English vocabulary and mechanics are often embedded in engaging content and/or literature.

1200 Gifted and talented—Programs that provide special educational opportunities including accelerated promotion through grades and classes and an enriched curriculum for students who are endowed with a high degree of mental ability or who demonstrate unusual physical coordination, creativity, interest, or talent (often in the visual or performing arts).

1300 Cocurricular programs—A program of activities that are related to the current curriculum in which a student is enrolled. This may be any type of school-sponsored activity designed to provide opportunities to participate in experiences on an individual or group basis (at school or public events) for the improvement of skills. The following characteristics apply to cocurricular activities: 1) participation is necessary for meeting class requirements, for credit, or for graduation; 2) sessions are conducted at regular and uniform times during school hours, or may be conducted during authorized non-school hours; 3) programs are directed or supervised by instructional staff in a learning environment similar to that found in classes offered for credit; and 4) services are primarily or totally funded by school-operating funds for general instructional purposes under the direction and control of local education authorities.

1400 Athletics—School-sponsored activities, under the guidance and supervision of school staff, that provide opportunities for students to pursue various aspects of physical education.

1500 Adult/continuing education—A program of instruction provided by an adult/continuing education instructional organization for adults and youth beyond the age of compulsory school attendance.

1501 Adult basic education—A program which provides learning experiences concerned with providing the fundamentals to adults who have never attended school or who have not completed formal schooling. These individuals need knowledge and skills to raise their level of education to increase self confidence and/or self determination, to prepare for an occupation, and to function more responsibly as citizens in a democracy.
1502 Adult English as a second language—A program which provides learning experiences for adults with a non-English background to develop the English language skills necessary to successfully participate in an English-speaking environment.

1503 Advanced adult basic education—A program which provides learning experiences designed to develop the knowledge, skills, understanding, attitudes, and behavioral characteristics considered to be needed by adults who may or may not have completed formal schooling. These individuals have accepted adult roles and responsibilities and are preparing for postsecondary careers and/or postsecondary education programs.

1504 Life enrichment—A program which provides learning experiences offering skills, knowledge, and understanding designed primarily for enjoyment without regard to a vocation.

1505 Occupational—A program which provides learning experiences offering the knowledge, skills, and understanding required to prepare learners for immediate employment in an occupation or cluster of occupations.

1506 Retraining for new occupation—A program which provides learning experiences offering skills, knowledge, and understanding required for preparation for employment in a new and different occupation.

1507 Special interest—A program which provides learning experiences offering the skills, knowledge, and understanding required to prepare adults for a subordinate occupation in addition to their vocation. Such programs also are referred to as avocational programs.

1508 Upgrading in current occupation—A program which provides learning experiences offering the skills, knowledge, and understanding designed primarily to extend or update workers’ competencies for occupations in which they are employed.

1509 General Educational Development (GED) preparation—A program which provides learning experiences designed to develop the knowledge, skills, and understanding required for the successful completion of the Test of General Educational Development (GED).

1599 Other adult/continuing education—Other adult/continuing education program which cannot be classified in any of the categories above.

1600 Community/junior college education program—Postsecondary education institutions, commonly organized into two-year programs, which offer instruction that has usually been adapted in content, level and schedule to meet the needs of the community in which they are located. Community or junior colleges generally offer a comprehensive curriculum which includes basic liberal arts, science, occupational, general education and adult education components. The program awards an Associate of Arts (A.A.) certificate to those who successfully complete the requirements.

1700 Community services program—A program of activities which are not directly related to the provision of educational services in a school system. These include services provided to the community as a whole or some segment of the community.
1701 Civic services—A program of activities concerned with providing services to civic affairs or organizations. This includes services to parent-teacher association meetings, public forums, lectures, and civil defense planning.

1702 Community recreation—A program of activities concerned with providing recreation for the community as a whole, or for some segment of the community. This includes such staff activities as organizing and supervising playgrounds, swimming pools, and similar programs.

1703 Coordination of casework—A program of activities designed to manage the counsel and aid given to individuals and families requiring assistance of social service agencies.

1704 Custody and child care services—A program of activities pertaining to the provision of programs for the custodial care of children in residential day schools, or child care centers which are not part of, or directly related to, the instructional program, and where the attendance of the children is not included in the attendance figures for the school or school system.

1705 Public library services—A program of activities pertaining to the operation of public libraries by a school or school system, or the provision of library services to the general public through the school library. This includes such activities as budgeting, planning and augmenting the library’s collection in relation to the community, and informing the community of public library resources and services.

1706 Welfare activities—A program of activities pertaining to the provision of personal needs of individuals who have been designated as needy by an appropriate governmental entity. These needs include stipends for school attendance, salaries paid to students for work performed (whether for the school, school system, or for an outside source), and for clothing, food, or other personal needs.

1799 Other community services—Other community services program provided to the community which cannot be classified above.

1800 Substance abuse education/prevention—A program that provides a variety of services including: 1) individual, group, and/or family counseling; 2) knowledge and skill-enhancing activities; and 3) structured groups that focus on family dynamics, problem solving, self-esteem, and/or similar issues. These programs care for students who are at risk of drug abuse, for example, those who are currently in an experimental stage (light use), who have family members or peer groups who use alcohol or drugs, or who have behavioral, emotional, or other problems at home, in school, in the community, or with the criminal justice system. Substance abuse education programs also offer presentations about the risks of substance use to students at their schools as well as in various other community settings.

1900 Student retention—A program that develops and implements educational strategies and practices including special instructional methods and materials to encourage students to remain in school and complete their elementary and secondary education.

2000 Extended day/child care services—A program that provides custodial care of students enrolled in a school or system before school day starts and/or after a school day ends.

2100 Counseling services—A program that helps a student to better identify his or her perceived educational, personal, or occupational potential; relate his or her abilities, emotions, and aptitudes to educational and career opportunities; use his or her abilities in formulating realistic plans; and achieve satisfying personal and social development.
2200 Immigrant education—A program of instruction and services designed and implemented especially for those children who have immigrated to the United States.

2300 College preparatory—A program that provides learning experiences that focus primarily on knowledge and skills considered to be needed by students desiring further education in postsecondary education. These experiences are usually achieved in secondary education.

2400 International Baccalaureate—A program established to provide an internationally recognized, interdisciplinary, pre-collegiate course of study. Its curriculum is designed to qualify students, especially those who are internationally mobile, for college admission. Upon completion of this program, a student may receive an International Baccalaureate diploma.

2500 Magnet/Special Program Emphasis—A school within the public education system that has been designed: 1) to attract students of different racial/ethnic backgrounds for the purpose of reducing, preventing, or eliminating racial isolation; and /or 2) to provide an academic or social focus on a particular theme (e.g., science/math, performing arts, gifted/talented, or foreign language).

2600 Alternative education—An instructional program that: 1) addresses needs of students which cannot typically be met in a regular school/program; 2) provides nontraditional education; 3) serves as an adjunct to a regular school; and 4) falls outside of the categories of regular, magnet/special program emphasis, special, or vocational/technical education.

2700 Library/media services—A program that provides library and media services to students and school staffs. Services include selecting, acquiring, cataloging, classifying, circulating, and maintaining library materials; furnishing reference and bibliographical services; selecting music, films, or other audio-visual materials for programs.

2800 Health services—A program that provides physical and mental health services which are not direct instruction, including medical, dental, and nursing services provided for students.

2900 Remedial education—A program that is designed to develop specific cognitive skills, usually in language arts or mathematics, from a deficient level to one that is appropriate to the educational abilities and aspirations of the student.

3000 School-To-Work Opportunities—A program that meets the system components which: 1) integrates work-based and school-based learning; 2) integrates occupational and academic learning; 3) provides linkages between secondary education and postsecondary education/job opportunity; and 4) is a partnership involving participation of educators, employers, governments, local communities, and other public or private organizations. The purpose of this program is to assist youths in making effective transitions from school to career-oriented work. Program examples include tech-prep education, career academies, youth apprenticeships, cooperative education, school-to-apprenticeship, business-education compacts, and school-sponsored enterprises.

3100 Service learning—A program that is designed to help students develop a deeper understanding of academic subjects through participation in meaningful service to their school or community.

9900 Other—Other programs which cannot be classified above.

Entity Uses: Assignment

2470 Function Type—The purpose of the program activities to which an individual is assigned as related to students.

(Note: This data element has two or more levels of options that are coded with four-digit numbers in order to better clarify the logical hierarchy of the option list.)

(Note: Code numbers for this option list correspond to those used in Financial Accounting for Local and State School Systems 1990 (often referred to as Handbook 2R², July 1990, available from the National Center for Education Statistics), except where designated by an “‡” which denotes that the option is not included in 2R² and has been added to this volume.)

1000 Instruction—Activities which involve direct interaction between teachers and students. Instruction may be provided for students in a school classroom, in another location such as a home or hospital, and in other learning situations such as those involving cocurricular activities. It may also be provided through some other approved medium such as television, radio, telephone, computer and correspondence. This includes aides and classroom assistants of any type (e.g., clerks or graders) who assist in the instructional process.

2000 Support services—Services to provide administrative, technical, personal (e.g., guidance and health), and logistical support to facilitate and enhance instruction. These services exist as adjuncts for fulfilling the objectives of instruction, community services and enterprise programs, rather than as entities within themselves.

Policy Questions, Indicators, and Basic Data Elements
Appendix A
Policy Questions, Indicators, and Basic Data Elements

A set of basic data elements should provide the means to answer the most basic and most frequently asked questions concerning the status, quality, and functioning of schools and school systems. In the Forum's 1990 report, A Guide to Improving the National Education Data System, the nature and adequacy of national data were examined in four major domains: background/demographics, education resources, school processes, and student outcomes. The Task Force discussed questions under each of the four major domains for which information is frequently requested. These questions primarily reflect policy decisions that affect student achievement. The Task Force has chosen indicators that can be obtained through a well-designed administrative records system. These indicators represent a consensus on what is the research-supported evidence that can be used to monitor and improve the quality of educational services provided to children. (See exhibit A-I) Indicators that are unique to specific school or district policies are not included in this list, nor are data acquired only through surveys or research studies. Examples of indicators not included in this document are graduation requirements, students’ aspirations for further education, and attendance and suspension policies.
Exhibit A-(I)
Key Questions and Indicators in Four Major Domains of Education Information

Student and Community Background Statistics
- Are children ready to learn when they enter school?
  - Percentage of children entering school with limited or no English proficiency
  - Percentage of children who received different types of early childhood learning experiences
  - Percentage of children with health needs
  - Percentage of children by disability type
- What kind of outside support do students have?
  - Percentage of students by parental education level
  - Percentage of students by family structure

School Process Statistics
- Do students have access to high quality, rigorous educational content and courses?
  - Percentage of students enrolled by course title or program
- Are students in school?
  - Mobility rate for students
  - Student attendance rate
  - Percentage of students suspended or expelled as a disciplinary action
  - Number of criminal offenses reported by type
  - Student retention rate by grade level
- What is the classroom or school environment?
  - Percentage of students receiving special services (e.g., special education, ESL, Title I)
  - Percentage of students by race/ethnicity by sex
  - Percentage of teachers assigned to teach within their field of certification by subject area

Education Resource Statistics
- What are the qualifications of instructional personnel?
  - Average number of years of teacher experience
- What is the supply of qualified instructional personnel?
  - Percentage of staff by race/ethnicity by sex
  - Rate of staff turnover by instructional level by program or subject matter area
- What additional assistance is available for students, staff, and other personnel?
  - Number of students by support service type
  - Percentage of students receiving transportation (including contracted service arrangements)

Student Outcomes Statistics
- Do students complete their schooling?
  - Percentage of students receiving a regular high school or advanced high school diploma
  - Percentage of students graduating with a certificate of completion
  - Percentage of students who dropped out of school
- What did students learn?
  - Percentage of students taking AP courses by subject area
  - Average subject area proficiencies by grade level (e.g., state or local tests)
  - Percentage of students meeting state and local achievement standards by school, family income, grade level, etc.
  - Percentage of students taking specified core curricula (including 4 Math, 3 Science, 4 English, 3 Social Studies, 0.5 Computer)
- Are students prepared for further education?
  - Percentage of students taking college entrance examinations
The Basic Set of Data Elements was derived, in part, from the list of indicators included in Table A, “List of Key Policy Question Information Areas, Indicators and Constituent Data Elements.” The Task Force has made assumptions concerning the availability of certain types of data. For example, it is assumed that total enrollment counts are available so that percentages can be computed for most of the listed indicators. An indication of when students enrolled and withdrew is needed so that total enrollment counts will be accurate for a given date or time period. An important assumption is that basic demographic data about students are included in individual student records, such as age (or date of birth), sex, race/ethnicity, and grade level. With these data elements, cross-tabulations can be computed for students by age, grade level, race/ethnicity or sex, or combinations of these variables at the school, district, or state levels.

Student and Community Background Statistics

Many factors affect student learning at schools. The physical and emotional well-being of young children influences their abilities to learn when they enter school. With parent and family support, a child gains the confidence to reach for his or her full potential to learn. In addition, a resourceful community can help families provide an environment conducive to student learning. Two major questions related to student and community background affect student learning:

- Are children ready to learn when they enter school? A child must be physically, mentally, and linguistically ready to participate in various learning activities and to receive instruction in school. Young children cannot learn if they are hungry or physically weak due to insufficient nourishment. They may have difficulties in adjusting to a school’s learning environment if they have had limited previous learning experiences. Children who are not proficient in English may not be able to communicate well with other adults and children at school. For schools to address these needs, they must be aware of them and plan for the provision of educational services that will overcome these barriers to learning. The following are indicators that provide information about the special needs of young children when they enter school.

  Possible Indicators
  1. Percentage of children entering school with limited or no English proficiency
  2. Percentage of children who received different types of early childhood learning experiences
  3. Percentage of children with health needs
  4. Percentage of children by disability type

- What kind of outside support do students have? What a student experiences outside of school greatly affects his or her learning in school. A student will have a better chance to succeed when his or her parents place a major emphasis on learning. A student whose family cannot afford to buy a computer at home is less likely to gain as much computer experience as another child whose family is fully equipped with a computer and a modem.

  Possible Indicators
  1. Percentage of students by parental education level
  2. Percentage of students by family structure
School Process Statistics

As mentioned in A Guide to Improving the National Education Data System, school process measures are needed to describe instructional practice, monitor reform, and explain discrepancies in student performance. Questions related to school process measures are primarily concerned with content and quality of instruction that students receive, students’ participation in learning activities, and characteristics of the learning and teaching environment. Members of the Core Data Task Force suggest three major questions related to school process.

- Do students have access to high-quality, rigorous educational content and courses? The types of courses offered indicate quality of education content available. All course offerings, including distance learning courses, should be examined. One way of assessing the quality of courses offered is to look at the graduation requirements. For instance, if completing two years of algebra is required, schools must make two algebra courses available. This requirement could be an indication that students are required to complete rigorous mathematics courses. Schools may provide high-quality educational content and courses, but students actually spend relatively little time in core subject courses. A look at the course-taking pattern of students and the time spent in core academic courses would help in assessing the extent to which students are exposed to rigorous education.

  Possible Indicator
  1. Percentage of students enrolled by course title or program

- Are students in school? Answering this question requires examining students’ attendance patterns, retention rates, suspension and expulsion rates, and attendance policies and their effects on student learning. The mobility pattern of a student’s family also affects his or her learning and participation in school activities. This is especially true for those states (e.g., California, Texas, and Florida) where large populations of migrant workers are reported. In addition, crime incidents and substance abuse have great effects on students’ attendance and participation in school activities.

  Possible Indicators
  1. Mobility rate for students
  2. Student attendance rate
  3. Percentage of students suspended or expelled as a disciplinary action
  4. Number of criminal offenses reported by type
  5. Student retention rate by grade level

- What is the classroom or school environment? This is a school process question covering all aspects of the school environment that might affect students’ learning. Some examples of factors affecting the school environment include class size, effective use of technology, student and staff population characteristics, and instructional practices. Answers to this question also include basic information about the school, such as school type; grade ranges; offering of special programs and services; and governance issues such as site-based decisionmaking, team teaching, and the provision of release time for professional development activities.
Possible Indicators
1. Percentage of students receiving special services (e.g., special education, English as a Second Language (ESL), Title I)
2. Percentage of students by race/ethnicity by sex
3. Percentage of teachers assigned to teach within their field of certification by subject area

Education Resource Statistics

The following three questions address major issues regarding education resources. Each question covers a wide spectrum of concerns, whereas the indicators point to some of the more specific concerns for schools and educators.

- What are the qualifications of instructional personnel? Many factors may affect a person’s ability to teach. We may logically expect a person’s education and training to have a significant impact. Several indicators can be used to help identify a teacher’s qualifications to teach. Among these measures are preservice and inservice training experiences, licensure testing, other types of professional development, and years of experience in the classroom.

  Possible Indicator
  1. Average number of years of teacher experience

- What is the supply of qualified instructional personnel? Measures in this area address the need to know who is teaching our nation’s children. A snapshot of the distribution of instructional personnel will help us understand the educational experiences of children. These indicators address demographics, assignments, and attrition rates.

  Possible Indicators
  1. Percentage of staff by race/ethnicity by sex
  2. Rate of staff turnover by instructional level by program or subject matter area

- What additional assistance is available for students, staff, and other personnel? In addition to instructional support for students, it is also important to assess what other forms of support are available to students and staff. For example, do students have access to a library, guidance counselors, psychologists, and health providers during school hours? Is there administrative support for teachers? Other types of support include transportation and lunch programs, federally funded programs, and community resources.

  Possible Indicators
  1. Number of students by support service type
  2. Percentage of students receiving transportation (including contracted service arrangements)
Student Outcomes Statistics

“How are students doing?” is the most important question asked by educators, parents, leaders of industry and business, and policymakers. Citizens are interested in knowing the results of the tax dollars they spend on education. Such concern focuses on the following key questions:

- Do students complete their schooling? We need to know how many students graduate and how many of them drop out of schools. In addition, it would be helpful to know the types of credentials graduates hold, whether for entering the work force or receiving postsecondary education.

  Possible Indicators
  1. Percentage of students receiving a regular high school or advanced high school diploma
  2. Percentage of students graduating with a certificate of completion
  3. Percentage of students completing high school equivalency requirements
  4. Percentage of students who dropped out of school

- What did students learn? This is a key question that is asked by everyone—parents, legislators, governors, and leaders of both the private and public sectors. We are concerned with what our students know and how much they know in comparison to students in other states and countries. A series of questions can be asked to reflect what students learned in schools. For example, are high school students achieving high learning standards for challenging courses? How many students are participating in AP courses? How many AP students score high enough to get college credit for the course? Are students scoring high on standardized achievement tests? How many courses and what types of courses are taken by high school students?

  Possible Indicators
  1. Percentage of students taking AP courses by subject area
  2. Average subject area proficiencies by grade level (e.g., state or local tests)
  3. Percentage of students meeting state and local achievement standards by school, family income, grade level, etc.
  4. Percentage of students taking specified core curriculums (including 4 Math, 3 Science, 4 English, 3 Social Studies, 0.5 Computer)

- Are students prepared for further education? In this information age and global economy, more jobs require postsecondary education or training and skills beyond the high school level. Several questions can be asked to reflect students’ readiness for postsecondary education. For example, how many students are going to postsecondary institutions after graduation? How many of them are taking college preparatory examinations, and what are their scores? Do students complete their postsecondary educations?

  Possible Indicators
  1. Percentage of students taking college entrance examinations

¹ A data element is the lowest level of information contained in an individual student or staff record. For definitions of the “data elements” and “entity uses” listed in this table, please refer to Section V and VI of this report. For identification purposes, each data element is numbered according to the Student Data Handbook: Elementary, Secondary and Early Childhood Education (National Center for Education Statistics, 1994) and the Staff Data Handbook: Elementary, Secondary and Early Childhood Education (National Center for Education Statistics, 1995). A three-digit number is for a student data element, while staff data elements have a four-digit numbering system. To assist the design of a record system, most of the data elements in the Handbooks are illustrated with recommended options of alternatives/responses for the data elements. For instance, the data element “Race/Ethnicity” has five general options for responding to an individual’s racial or ethnic heritage category.

² Indicators are often expressed in percentages, averages, and totals. It is assumed that total enrollment counts are available for computing percentages and averages. An indicator statistic is computed from compilations of individual data on a specific topic of concern/interest. A computed statistic for an indicator, therefore, should not contain individual identifiable information.
